WINDOWS were broken in other Catholic headquarters, and the situation is strained between the Italian government and the Vatican.

Pope Pius since early in March, has refused to receive Count de Vecchi, appointed by Mussolini Italian ambassador to the Holy See.

An absolute diplomatic break between the Italian government and the pope's government of Vatican City is feared.

Additional anxiety is caused in Catholic circles by the action of Spain's republican government ordering the public registry to make an inventory of "all property holdings of Catholic religious orders in Spain."

It is feared in Catholic circles that this may be a prelude to confiscation, the enactment of a measure to declare all property of religious houses state property.

CAPT. HAWKS, champion American flier, had his breakfast in London, luncheon in Berlin, and dinner in Paris.

The crowd welcoming him at Le Bourget, the Paris flying field, at ten minutes past 6 last night, hailed him "America's meteor man." He flew from London to Berlin in 3 hours and 15 minutes, spent an hour and twenty-seven minutes in Berlin, plenty of time for luncheon, and flew from Berlin to Paris for his dinner in three hours and five minutes.

WE ARE PROUD of our fliers in Europe, proud also of the great ... control of our traveling mayors. Mayor Walter E. Batterson of Hartford, Conn., after luncheon with French officials at the Hotel de Ville in Paris, said: "We are 21 mayors who have been continuously banqueting now for nearly a whole week, and not one of us has been drunk. Name another 21 men going through the same experience who could say as much for themselves."

That is doing pretty well for 21 American mayors. But the statement will amuse Frenchmen, who never drink ice water and never get drunk.

SENATOR BORAH laughs at "old minds" that object to doing business with Russia, and advises us to go after the Russian trade that European nations are all seeking.

Mr. Borah points out that the success of the Russian five-year plan is largely an American success. Over 3,000 of our able engineers and industrial managers are over there. Over $200,000,000 credit has been extended. General Motors, General Electric, Ford, and many other corporations are there."

Senator Borah thinks we could safely absorb some of that Russian trade created to a large ex-

BALLOON UP 52,500 FEET, PICCARD SAYS

Former Altitude Record Beaten by 12,000 Feet, Germans Assert.

LANDING MADE IN ALPS

Flight into New Aerial Region "Magnificent," German Scientist Reports.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, May 28 — A Telegraphen union dispatch, from Innsbruck today said that Prof. August Piccard, German scientist, and his companion, Charles Kipfer, were alive and had met a rescue party proceeding to the spot where their balloon came down on a glacier near the Alpine town of Gurgl.

The message said Prof. Piccard had told the rescue party that his balloon had reached an altitude of 52,500 feet or more than nine miles, while he and his companion were in a sealed aluminum ball arranged for their attempt to explore the stratosphere, the area above not yet entered by man.

A report from Soelden said the balloon had landed at about 10 o'clock last night and that the ship and its instruments were intact.

If those instruments should confirm the altitude estimate of 52,500 feet it would be a new world altitude record.

The balloonists were quoted as saying their flight had been a complete success.

The instruments and balloon are to be taken to Soelden while the two physicists and those who set out to rescue them headed for the village of Ober Gurgl, closer at hand.

PICCARD ELATED

Valuable Data Collected in Lofty Voyage, Scientist Reports

INNSBRUCK, Austria, May 28—Professor Piccard, reaching the Alpine town of Gurgl this afternoon, said his adventurous flight into the stratosphere had been "magnificent beyond conception," and that he and Charles Kipfer had broken the world's altitude record by 12,000 feet.

They never lost control of their balloon, he said, and they gathered valuable scientific data in their long hours aloft in the metal gondola suspended from the gas bag.

The balloon itself, lying on the "Grosser Gurgler Ferner," 9,000 feet up in the Alps, is to be salvaged by a detachment of the Tyrolese Alpine chasseurs.

"We're both very tired," the physicist said, "but otherwise we're well and happy. Our balloon is safe and the slight damage to the instruments is hardly worth mentioning.

SALEM FUND QUOTA IS OVERSUBSCRIBED

Eastern Ohio City Exceeds Chest Campaign Goal by $4,223.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire.

SALEM, O., May 28—Climaxing a two-day campaign, Salem civic workers last night dropped $26,623 in pledges and contributions into the city's 1931 community fund, topping the drive quota of $22,400 by $4,223.

The figures were announced by C. C. Gibson, president of the Mullins Manufacturing corporation, and chairman of the executive committee, at the final dinner and meeting for team workers Wednesday night.

As a result, funds for the continuance of activities of seven outstanding community organizations and institutions, including the City Hospital association, the Memorial building, the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Quaker City band, Home for Aged Women and the Salvation Army, are assured for another year.

Clifton Reeves, vice president of the Mullins Manufacturing Corporation, was general chairman in charge of the campaign.

Student Pilot Dies as Ships Collide on Ground

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 28—John F. Ross, 20-year-old sudent pilot and member of the Ohio National guard, was instantly killed as he sat in his idle biplane at the Cleveland airport last night when another plane crashed into him in taking off. George K. Scott, an experienced flier who was at the helm of the other plane, escaped with a sprained ankle.

Ross had just landed and was waiting for a clear field when Scott came down some distance behind and started another take-off.

TRAIN BLOWN FROM TRACKS

One Killed, Score Hurt, in Freak Railway Wreck in West.

12 CARS TOSSED OFF RAILS

Steel Construction of Coaches Save Lives; Seven Imprisoned Half Hour.

By The Associated Press

FARGO, N. D., May 28—Dashing along at a 50-mile an hour clip, the crack Great Northern "Empire Builder," coast train de luxe, eastbound from Seattle to Chicago, was picked up like a toy from its tracks and wrecked by a tornado eight miles southeast of here late Wednesday. One life was lost, more than a score injured, one probably fatally and scores of passengers shaken up by the freak accident.

The death resulted when Andrew Anderson of Montesano, Wash., was hurled from the train through a window and ground to death beneath the wheels of the following coach. Mrs. Emily Hannan of Seattle, suffered a broken neck.

Others Injured

Mrs. N. Troll of Minot, N. D., also was said to be in a serious condition. An infant daughter of Mrs. Hilda Qualley of Winchester, Wash., also was injured.

The train was nearing Sabin, Minn., with Engineer B. E. McKee of St. Paul at the throttle. Without warning the entire 12-coach train was lifted from the tracks, moved east from the roadbed and deposited with a thud on the prairie, leaving only the engine and tender on the tracks.

As if held spellbound by the suddenness of the disaster, a moment or two passed before realization of the horror of the wreck became manifest among the passengers. Men struggled frantically to make their way out of the debris.

Passing motorists speeded into Moorhead, Minn., notified railway officials and within a few minutes doctors, nurses and ambulances were en route.

Cars Built of Steel

Despite the tremendous shock of the impact, scores escaped uninjured, due chiefly to the fact all cars of the train were of steel.

Seven persons were imprisoned for half an hour in the train club car when doors jammed. The barriers were chiseled away and the persons, several hysterical, were taken out. One other fatality was known to have resulted from the tornado.

Melvin Hatledal, 18, was killed as he crouched in the basement with other members of the family at his farm home eight miles north of Watts Siding. He was struck by a concrete block.

Widespread damage was done to farm property in the two counties, with dozens of buildings, school houses and one church reported demolished or damaged.

Heads Ohio Clubs

District Governor A. A. Schramm of Marietta will be the principal speaker and short talks will also be made by the international past president and Dr. C. L. Harding, lieutenant governor of this district.

The meeting will be the culmination of an attendance campaign launched last fall when a treasure chest was started from the local club on a visit to the 12 other clubs of the district. The outstanding feature of the meeting will be the presentation of the trophy to the club having the largest attendance on the occasion of the visit of the chest.

Fostoria and Fremont, Lieutenant Governor Harding told members of the club recently, are tied for first place and the percentage of attendance at the meeting to-

THREE HURT IN JAIL BATTLE

Prisoners Make Desperate Attempt To Escape Mahoning County Prison.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 28—Two prisoners were injured and Sheriff Adam Stone was slugged in a battle between county officers and 23 prisoners in an attempted jail break from the Mahoning county jail early today. The prisoners were overcome after they had forced their way into the sheriff's office. None escaped.

Jack Thompson, charged with burglary, and Frank Hornyak, charged with robbery, were slugged by deputies but not seriously injured. Sheriff Stone was stunned momentarily by one of the prisoners, all of whom had improvised blackjacks by wrapping soap in tape and twine.

The 23 prisoners broke out of a cell block by smashing down a door.

Eight of them made a dash for the sheriff's office, apparently with the intent of seizing weapons and keys to the outside doors.

At the office the eight attacked Stone and Deputy Sheriff Leslie Parker. Deputy Charles Conway opened fire with a revolver, two visitors jumped into the melee, and the eight were overcome. All of Conway's shots went wild.

Hornyak was said to be the ring leader of the attempt.

MUSSOLINI FOE TO DIE

Schirru Sentenced for Plot Against Life of Mussolini.

IS AMERICAN CITIZEN

Prisoner Loses Bravado and Breaks Down as Trial Closes.

By The Associated Press

ROME, May 28—Michele Schirru, naturalized American citizen, was convicted today of plotting the assassination of Premier Mussolini and sentenced to death by shooting in the back.

Schirru, who was tried before a special tribunal for the defense of state, maintained an attitude of bravado until the trial was nearly ended. He broke down, however, during the final summation of the prosecutor, who described him as "a man without morals." At this point Schirru bowed his head and began to weep.

The defense attorney concluded his plea by addressing the judges, "your sentence will be heard by the world, let it therefore be merciful."

Schirru was charged in all on seven counts, including the possession of bombs, the wounding of three detectives and membership in an Anarchist party. He is the first American to be prosecuted for such an offense in Italy's highest court.

Police said that Schirru, 32 years old and a former resident of New York, had confessed to coming to Rome early this year with the intention of killing Mussolini. He was arrested in February after a gun battle with police and explosives were said to have been found in his room.

SENATE PASSES TAXATION BILL

"Keystone" Proposal of New Ohio Tax System Passes First Hurdle.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 28—The keystone bill of Ohio's proposed new taxation system, based upon classification of property and intended to replace the "uniform rule," had successfully passed the first hurdle today, the senate, and was before the house.

While the senate was tusseling with this important measure, the house taxation committee listened to arguments for and against a proposed chain store tax.

A second of the major proposals in the new tax program, that increasing the license fees on motor vehicles and exempting them from a general property tax, was before the senate today.

Property Classified

The keystone bill passed by the senate yesterday classifies intangibles and levies various rates of taxes according to class. Income from investments is to be taxed at five per cent while deposits, both active and savings, in banks and

Dinner Bridge Honors Miss Cudd

A pretty dinner bridge party and miscellaneous shower was given Miss Olive Cudd last evening at the Bradley country home on the Prospect pike by the girls of the accounting department at the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Covers were placed for eight at a table decorated in Miss Cudd's color of orchid and green. Miss Cudd, who formerly made her home in Marion and is now living in Meeker, will be married Sunday, June 14 to Harold Williams, of Marion.

Four green tapers tied with orchid and green ribbons lighted the dinner table. Favors were at each place. A friend, dressed as an Italian peddler, called at the home to display his wares, which were the shower gift for Miss Cudd.

Awards in bridge were presented Miss Lucille Schindler and Miss Helen Ward. Guests were Miss Leora Thompson, Miss Catherine O'Keeffe, Miss Margaret Muntsinger, Miss Ward, Miss Mary Florence Schuler, Miss Helen Creps, Miss Schindler and the guest of honor.

Juniors Entertain Departing Seniors at Annual Prom

THE junior class of Harding High school entertained the departing seniors with a rainbow prom last night at The Star auditorium. Nearly 400 young people, members of the faculty of the high school and guests, attended.

The stage proscenium was lowered by a rainbow arch of colored crepe against the velvet curtains. Lattice fence and a garden archway set the dance floor apart from the space given over to lounging chairs and the refreshments tables. Around the dance floor were arranged card tables, wicker divans and chairs and softly shaded floor lamps.

Music for dancing was furnished by the Ohio State Pirate's orchestra and was suggestive of the theme of the room. The girls were in every color of the rainbow, including several black frocks and the materials ranged from satins, crepes and chiffons to the newer cotton materials, mousseline-de-soie and organdie. Dark coats and white flannels were the regulation attire worn by the boys. Colored balloons added to the attractiveness of the affair.

The faculty committee assisting the junior committees included Miss Mabel Turney and Miss Ruth Starr, entertainment, Miss Helen Jacoby and Miss Jean Freer, refreshments and Miss Margery Eymon and Dewey N. Bohyer, decorations.

St. Mary's Class Entertains for School Seniors

BASKETS of garden flowers formed a lovely background for the dinner table arranged for the banquet given by the sophomore class of St. Mary's parochial high school for the seniors Tuesday evening in the dining room at the school. Enshrined in the floral decorations was a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The table was arranged to form a large U, and was decorated in colors of orchid and gold and lighted with tapers.

The welcome address was given by Charles Seckel, president of the sophomore class, who presided as toastmaster. Toasts were given by Emerson Burgess, Alma Schroeter, Irene Chontos and Elizabeth Brown and a short talk was given by Rev. W. J. Spickerman. The farewell address was given by Jack Bintz, president of the senior class. A program was presented in the school hall by Rose Marie Emerson, Helen Werley, Mary O'Neil, Mary Bray, Charles Bodner, and the sophomore girls. Later dancing and music were enjoyed.

[illegible] was playing a tattoo on [illegible] and Nora rushed out [illegible] father there

[illegible] very shabby, but [illegible] still a rakish gayety [illegible] She had dreaded to see [illegible] expected a broken man, [illegible] pathetic; but he was

[illegible] look at me as though I'm [illegible] convict It was a bad [illegible] such things will hap-

[illegible] him into the back par- [illegible] shed the door. He asked [illegible] what had happened until she [illegible] what Damon intended to

[illegible] away again She won't

[illegible] you can't! Go out to [illegible] and tell her you're willing [illegible] go through with it."

[illegible] don't do that."

He looked the room. Suddenly, [illegible] bare the dark secrets, the [illegible] things that had humiliated [illegible] and burned in his heart. The [illegible] struggle to keep from breaking down, to come at last to [illegible] kind of recognition. He had had [illegible] talent, and even earnest work had not brought him anything but jeers. But he had gone on hoping. Nora had only half guessed these things, but as he talked she remembered days when he had painted when they had not had enough to eat, with Julian feverishly hopeful over some poor daub.

"Everyone laughing at me. And I thought some day I'd show them."

He was walking up and down the room talking feverishly as he laid before her the story of those years. Even these last weeks that he had spent at Cape Cod had been an unbearable struggle to go on with the craft he loved. He had slept in the barn of an artist, eaten where and when he could, penniless, too proud to let her know.

"I'd earn my dinner with a story, by making them laugh at me God, I knew that too!"

Nora sat still. For her father had stripped himself of all his glamour and showed her it was his hope that some day he would succeed. It was dreadful for her to see him with the look in his eyes of a dog who has been kicked.

"I'm a failure and what's worse—a fool."

"Don't, Julian. Don't," she whispered.

But now he could not stop. He cursed himself for having brought her nothing but misery. She saw clearly that in this last dreadful thing he had done, he had thought of her and Aunt Em and Hallie, of what money could do for them.

"Money, it's always money. The secret of happiness—if there is any such thing—is money."

He called himself a vagabond, a failure, a fool. He did not listen to her as she told him that she still believed in him. For he had stripped away the last illusion. He had faced himself at last and his long-buried sense of frustration and fear sprang out at him in full force to throttle him.

"Im only an old vagabond," he said a last sinking down on the couch.

"Julian darling, we're both vagabonds," she laughed with a dreadful broken note in her voice. "No matter what Damon does we can bear it."

The name of Damon roused him to fresh anger. He accused Damon now in his half-maddened state for his downfall, for the jeering laughter that would always follow the mention of his name. He turned on her all the force of his hatred of himself. He scarcely knew what he said now; and Nora was frightened.

Then he ceased reviling Damon. He sat very still and Nora did not dare to go near him. He might break down and she could not bear that. Her father had thrown a brilliant searchlight on his past and she saw now why she had loved him so deeply even when he was most rash and impractical; for he had struggled toward an ideal. And failing that, he seemed to care for nothing else.

She did not know how long she sat there in that silence. She could not find a word to say, and she did not dare to put her arm about his shoulders. If he should break down she felt as though it would be the end of everything

Then at last he looked up. The old Julian with his fire and charm stood before her.

"I must make her see; she can't do what she means to do."

"What do you mean?"

"I'm going."

"Where?"

"It's a place I have to find alone."

"I believe in you," she lied staunchily.

But he smiled at her, flung open the door, tramped down the hall. She saw him run down the steps like a boy. But when she went to the window to watch him go past she saw he was a shabby old man who walked as though he had lost his purpose. She stood there until he disapepared, tears blinding her.

The day passed somehow. She spent part of it looking up and down the street to see if her father were not coming back. She should have gone with him. But she knew he would not have allowed it. He was going to Damon Perhaps Damon would not go on with the suit. But if she did . . . if Julian were sent to prison . . .

How empty the house was! Without the children it seemed forlorn, only the sound of Hallie's typewriter tapping so steadily. Mr. Dusenbury had only allowed her to have the morning to see Fran off. But after seeing her father she could not go back to the office.

She walked about, waiting for Fergus to come home. But when he returned he had his office hours to keep. At last the patients were gone Nora went in to him.

"Fergus, Julian's been here. He was going to see Damon He hasn't come back Fergus, I'm frightened."

"Steady now," he said, "nothing's happened, has it?"

"No, but something may"

"Do you want me to drive you out there?"

"If you would Fergus?"

He wrapped her up in the rug when they got in his car, but she shivered as she turned to ask him, "You shouldn't go away like this, should you?"

"It's all right, Nora."

She clung to his strength now, but she had never known the drive to be so long. She leaned forward as though she could urge on the car that jolted and bumped over the road. Far off she could see the river with its floating cakes of ice. At last they were on the driveway. Deep violet shadows lay on the snow and the sun struck gold from the windows of the old house.

"Go and ask, Fergus, if Damon is there. If she's all right?"

She sat huddled under the rug, her face so wild and white that Fergus could not bear to look at her. She watched him disappear Fergus found her sitting like a bird huddled in its feathers when he returned to her.

"Damon isn't home. She and your father went for a walk along the river."

"Oh, Fergus!"

She sprang from the car. Nothing could keep her now from going with him. They walked toward the river and found a trodden path that ran beside it, and skirted the woods, Nora hurried beside Fergus without a word. As far as they could see this path was empty.

She clutched his arm. Her father couldn't have done anything. But she remembered those wild threats he had made against Damon.

"Oh, Fergus, I can't see them anywhere," she cried. "I can't even see their footsteps. Do you suppose —"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Photographic Memory Clicks

FOR a long minute after the conviction had flashed upon me that I knew what was represented by the Chinese characters upon the flaming red rice letter which Mr Ticer had found fastened to the cushion of my car, I could not speak. It was not only the satisfaction of solving the thing which had so eluded my memory, and which was so important for me to know, but a far deeper emotion which was sweeping me. If this thing were true, and I knew it was, then——

"It's Lee Chow!" I broke the silence jubilantly "He and Hugh must be alive and somewhere near!"

The instant the words were out of my mouth, I regretted them I had interpreted aright Lillian's sudden halt when she was about to voice the wish that Lee Chow were at hand to cope with the menace of these mysterious Chinese who had demanded that we give up Marion's sandal-wood lock box, and who were now even more insistent that we turn over the letter which Mr. Ticer had found an hour ago She had not wished to arouse Dicky's jealousy by any reference, however remote to Hugh Grantland. And here I had uttered Hugh's name in what could only be interpreted as a paean of Thanksgiving even to a casual observer.

Useless to Wish

Useless to wish that I had been more discreet, useless to excuse my slip to my own soul by the plea that my exciting experience had so unnerved me that I did not possess my usual sanity, and was hardly responsible for what I said. The words were out. I could not recall them. The only thing I could do now was to act supremely unconscious of them, as if they meant nothing especially to me beyond my joy that now we might hope for expert help in our problem.

I did not dare to look at Dicky, but augured the worst from his silence. At any other announcement from me, he would have voiced excited questions. But now he said nothing, and it was Lillian who sprang into the conversational breach

"What do you mean by Lee Chow?" she asked with assumed captiousness. "Do you mean that the letter is from him. If it is, all I've got to say is that the sapient old mandarin is losing his grip, strewing his social correspondence around like that."

Her flippancy had given me just the fillip I needed. I answered her with impatience as pretended as her flippancy.

"No, no, I don't mean the letter was written by Lee Chow. I mean that it is addressed to Lee Chow"

"Are you sure of that, Daughter?" my father asked gravely

"Why!" I stammered. "Of course I don't know how Chinese letters are addressed, but I do know that these characters here," I indicated the superscription are those of Lee Chow's name And you all saw, didn't you, that the same characters are repeated several times inside it"

"And you deduce from that," Dickey's voice broke acidly, "that Faithful Fido and his equally faithful Chink will be appearing around these parts soon"

My father rose suddenly, and walked to the door I knew that he was deeply displeased as he always is when Dicky or anyone else says anything that could possibly be construed as a slight to me But I also knew that he would say nothing

Lillian was not so reticent, however.

"Miauow miauow" she whined so softly that my father could not hear it, and the expletive so often, playfully and seriously used by women toward each other—to express a conviction of their feminine desire to scratch the feelings of their acquaintances, evidently peneterated Dicky's self esteem, as she meant it to do. He threw up his head for an instant, and there was a look in his eyes—I saw it beneath my furtively veiled lashes which he rarely sends Lillian, a fiercely angry stare. But she looked full at him with widely laughing eyes, and his face reddened with confusion. Then, with one of his unexpected changes of mind, he laughed aloud, naturally, gleefully and at the sound my father turned abruptly from the window and came back into the room.

"Sorry, sorry," Dicky said. "I am an old tomcat just as my dear friend here so kindly intimates, and I beg everybody's pardon, my darling wife's most of all. But sometimes the very name of my dear old college friend, Hugh, just naturally rubs me the wrong way. But I don't deny that I wouldn't mind seeing him coming through the door right about now, especially if he were accompanied by his fidus Achates, Lee Chow They'd be two handy lads in this scrape or scrap, call it what you like, that we've got on our hands."

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

ONE more day, and I feel like when Friday comes and the teacher tells us all goodbye till next term I will go up in the air like a skyrocker and explode and fill heaven with glory. That is the way I feel now, but I know what I will do. I will bring my books home and my mother will tell me that she is glad I am going to be out of school for a while so that I can help her to take care of Annabelle Lee, and my grandfather will tell me that him and me will have some good fishing trips, and my ant will tell me that now she supposes I will get busy and find some brand new ways to endanger my life, and my father will tell me that he expects me to remember that the holdback strap is still hanging on its nail in the barn and I had better watch out and not let him hear any complaints or him and me will go to the barn together That is one thing I will watch out for. If he didn't like to go to the barn with me any better than I like to go to the barn with him, we would never both be in the barn at the same time. I would like to throw that hold-back strap in the lake but I don't know what he would take in place of it. It is called a holdback strap because it goes on a harness to help a horse hold back when it is taking a load down hill, but my father don't hold back on it any.

I let Jubilee down by his rope, and opened the back kitchen door to go out with the pail, and then I stopped supprized and called my father, and he hopped out of bed and came grumpling because I had woke him, and then he called my mother, and then my ant and grandfather and unkle came in their night clothes and stood looking, and it was about the biggest and fattest snake I had seen in a long time, and it was on the walk right in front of the step. My father said he could tell it was a poison-us snake by its wide head, and my grandfather said he could tell by its stumpy tail, and all the time the snake was holding its head up and running is tongue out and in, and my father told me to go to the barn and get him the hoe, so I said all right, and I jumped as high as I could and came down on the snake and mashed its head and it was twisting and wiggling itself into knots and my mother and my ant screamed, and I was scolded and my mother said it was a mercy I wasn't stung, and I was unkle said it was lucky I [illegible] on its head, and I told him [illegible] could jump on a snake's [illegible] cause a snake always [illegible] head up to avoid [illegible] ing. Railway Mail Auxiliary of Marion Entertains Guests

PATRIOTIC colors of red, white and blue carried out an attractive note in the decorations at the First Presbyterian church and also the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Johnson of 495 south Prospect street when the Woman's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail association entertained their families and members of the Crestline auxiliary and their families at a guest day party last evening.

Covers were placed for 58 members and guests at a table set in U shape and decorated in colors of red, white and blue in the church diningroom where the dinner was served. Flowers carried out the color note and the table was lighted with blue candles tied with red tulle, held in crystal holders. Miniature mail sacks stamped with "U. S. Mail" held red, white and blue candies, for the guest favors and place cards were hand-decorated with American flags and the letterings of the organizations. Baskets of spring flowers adorned the room.

Mrs. Frank Annen presided as toastmaster and the guests were welcomed by the auxiliary president, Mrs. W. M. Morecraft. The response was made by Mrs. Bert Ogle, president of the Crestline branch. Misses Betty Annen and Betty Jacoby sang two numbers, "My Baby" and "Whispering Hope," and Miss Annen entertained with a piano selection. Miss Pauline Parish contributed two readings, "Little Sister at the Medicine Cabinet" and "Defective Hearing." Short talks were given by Charles King, assistant chief clerk of the Crestline branch, Bert Ogle, of Crestline and Howard Sackett of Delaware, and R. G. Knight of Delaware entertained with several numbers on the harmonica. A talk was given by W. Walts of Chicago, chief clerk of the Chicago division. During the dinner hour telegrams were read from W. Collins, national president and Mrs. Collins of Washington and O. Zimmerman of Crestline, president of the Crestline group, expressing regrets at not being able to attend the party.

The garden at the Johnson home afforded a lovely setting for an evening of bridge and five-hundred. Eleven tables were arranged for cards, bridge awards going to Mrs. Walter Kraft, Mrs. Chester Jones of Crestline, Mrs. Harry Evans, George Mason, Walter Kraft and L. M. Kraft. Honors for scores in five-hundred were presented Mrs. Bert Ogle of Crestline, Mrs. L. E. McMichaels of Bucyrus, Mrs. J. W. Loomis of Bucyrus, Bert Ogle of Crestline, James Rissler and Frank Annen.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Grasmiller, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Mabee, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Giffin, Mrs. H. D. Ackerman of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ogle, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Turning New Pages

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

THERE is a wealth of romance and thrilling adventure in Peter B. Kyne's new volume of two short stories, "The Gringo Privateer" and "The Island of Desire."

In both stories the plot is woven around a young man, well bred, adventurous and likeable. There is bound to be a preference and we liked "The Island of Desire," a tale of the sea.

"The Gringo Privateers" is, as is easily guessed, a story of ranch life. Kenneth Burney, whose father has lost his California ranch and cattle, finds a job at El Ranchito, the home of his majesty, the king, owner of the best land and stock in that part of the country.

The king has a daughter, Murial, who has been out three seasons, is unspoiled and knows a man when she sees one. The king engages Ken to manage his ranch and incidentally do what he can to rid the country of some undesirable citizens.

Ken gets his man, or men, and by subtle strategy, gets the girl.

* * *

IN contrast to the first story, the sea is the setting for "Island of Desire," the story of a young aviator, who after thrashing his superior officer for sending him up in an antiquated ship which crashes, leaves the service and starts west.

Traveling by plane as only an aviator would care to travel, he is the one survivor of a wreck on the desert. It is an easy matter to leave the scene before help arrives and young Robert Kilgore, the romantic son of a Celtic father and a French mother, starts life anew.

As Bartley Tompkins, Kilgore ships on the Dashing Wave, sailing under the Guatamalan flag and in charge of Boots Kendrick and Larson, a husky, middle-aged Swede, both pirates at heart.

Kilgore knows little about the sea, but his air training stands him well in hand and through a sort of an exchange he forms something of a friendship with the friendly Swede. The objective of the Dashing Wave is a tropical island where both Larson and the captain each wish to capture a white girl, shipwrecked with her father on the island for several years.

Not knowing which will be disposed of first, Larson and Kilgore arrange means of saving themselves and it is a surprised captain who discovers Kilgore alive and safe, the morning following the supposed accident. Then and there he decides to put liquor aside.

There is plenty of action when the boat arrives at the island, and then and there all friendship ceases. The captain meets his fate at the hands of the natives after he invites them on his boat, gets them drunk on gin and puts them in chains. Larson's heart softens and he lays off shore long enough to rescue Kilgore and the maiden and all ends happily.

New Novel by Polish Writer

SOMETHING new in form in the novel has come out of Poland, is the claim of those who have read Ferdynand Goetel's story, "From Day to Day."

The central character of the novel is an author of reputation living in Poland, Stanislaw by name. He is writing an autobiographical novel of his love for a girl, Marusia, whom he met on the Turkestan steppes when he was a prisoner of war.

At the same time Stanislaw is keeping a diary of his present experiences, in which he records the growing isolation from his wife and their relationships with various other characters.

It is an unique and difficult technique, John Galesworthy observes in a foreword. But after a rather mystifying start Goetel carries it off and there is real emotional writing as the apparently artificial story develops into an actual influence on the author Stanislaw.

Stanislaw, with another prisoner, Felix, was farmed out by their Russian captors who work in the fields of Marusia in Turkestan. Marusia is living on one of her father's farms away from a difficult stepmother.

The novelist and the girl come to love each other, only to be separated by an old, influential officer who wants Marusia to marry him. In the revolution Stanislaw escapes to Poland to divorce his wife to marry Marusia.

Back home he finds himself, however, inclined to carry on as before, held strongly by his daughter's love. But he has to write the novel of his bucolic interlude to get it out of his thoughts, and there is a gradual estrangement from his wife with his shadow, Felix, involved.

After a tragic, involuntary affair with the adoring poetess wife of a friend Stanislaw is in an intolerable position. He sends for Marusia, but she dies on the train to Poland and only their son arrives. His wife forgiving, the situation is worked out, as in a novel.

Pershing's Story of the War

GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING dedicates his book, "My Experiences in the World War," to the "Unknown Soldier." His primary purpose, he says, in writing the story of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, is to render what he conceives to be an important service to his country. In that adventure there were many lessons useful to the American people, should they ever again be called to arms.

"To my comrades of the Allied armies I would say that I am not attempting to write a history of the World war or of the epic part they took in it. I write of our own army and for our own people, without consciously magnifying or minimizing the effort of any army or any people. There is credit for all of us in the final triumph of our united arms. The struggle of the Allies was much longer, their sacrifices much greater than ours.

Author Tells of Seeing France

THERE are three ways to see France, says Robert Gordon Anderson, author of "An American Family Abroad," published by Robert M. McBride & Co. There is the tourist's fly-by-night way; pleasant, of course, but sometimes inducing "traveler's indigestion." There is the more leisurely and expensive way of sojourning for a considerable time in a famous city at the high-priced caravansaries, and moving in American circles. But the third way is the delightful and highly profitable method of installing oneself in French families or pensions. This way, Mr. Anderson opines, one learns conversational French more quickly, and becomes really acquainted with French ways, customs and attitudes. For the greater part of the year he spent abroad he lived with his family in a French student pension. Here he found not only many French students from the Sorbonne and other University of Paris schools, but students from every quarter of the globe.

AIR LAYER DESCRIBED

Systematic Temperature Variation Ceases in Stratosphere.

By The Associated Press

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 28—The stratosphere or isothermal layer, which August Piccard explored in his balloon, is that portion of the upper atmosphere where the systematic rise and fall of temperature with increasing altitude ceases

It was discovered in 1899 by the physicist, De Bort, who found that the lower layer averaged a little less than seven miles above the surface of the earth. Its thickness is not known

U. S. Weather Expert Sees Future Flights in Sealed Airships.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Dr. W. J. Humphreys, physicist of the weather bureau, said today the balloon flight of Prof. August Piccard demonstrates it would be possible for human beings to live inside sealed airships at far greater heights than planes have yet reached. The safe return of Prof. Piccard and his assistant after reaching what they say was a height of 52,500 feet indicates passengers could live in rocket-propelled airplanes traveling at that height, Dr. Humphreys said, provided they could stand the enormous velocity at which a rocket plane would tarvel The altitude record for airplanes is about 43,000 feet

KENTON, May 28—Graves of 17 veterans of the War of 1812 on the site of old Ft. McArthur along the banks of the Scioto river west of Kenton are to be decorated this year together with the graves of soldiers and sailors of all wars.

The ceremonies at the old historic fort will be carried out Friday afternoon in charge of the Ft. McArthur chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The site of the old log fort named after its builder, General Ducan McArthur, is recognized as one of the leading historic spots of Ohio It was one of the most important in the chain that connected the more civilized portions of Ohio with Detroit during the war and was occupied by Hull and his command on his march through the state

While no battles were ever fought at the fort it served as a storehouse for supplies as well as a place of refuge for Americans straggling along the Hull's trail from the settlement to another. During the duration of the conflict it was commanded by Captain Robert McClelland

For years after the war soldiers were stationed at the Fort but in time the old log structure rotted away It was only recently that the site of the Fort and burial grounds was properly marked and while the graves of the fallen soldiers have been designated their names and the date of their deaths are forgotten forever

History recalls that it was at Ft McArthur during 1831 that an attempt was made by an unknown assassin upon the life of Blackhoff, the celebrated Shawnee Chieftian during a visit He was then living in Wapakoneta

DECISION HELD UP

Heirs Object to Bill Filed by Administrator.

MT. GILEAD, May 28 No decision has been made by Judge Ethel Elder in the probate hearing held Thursday of the case of the heirs of Reece Gale against Victor Housberg. Gale, a Franklin township farmer, left a will bequeathing his estate of approximately $40,000 to 16 nephews and nieces During the last year of his life Housberg was his guardian. He was also administrator of the estate.

In submitting his accounts Housberg put in a bill for personal services amounting to $2,400 for caring for Gale while he was ill and this was the main item the heirs objected to as they claim the sum is excessive

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep on and carry-on in comfort.
Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is only a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold and that's usually the end of it.
Carry Bayer Aspirin when you go. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No person of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses listed in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those nagging pains which seem almost to gnaw the bones, Bayer Aspirin ... with its quick relief—and ... works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Aching, needless pain.
Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

PETERSON'S OINTMENT HEALED SORE 18 YEARS OLD

It seems rather a sweeping statement but Peterson's can back up the just claims of his powerfully healing and soothing Ointment with grateful letters from people who have been benefited.

Even one application takes out the soreness, starts to heal, discharge ceases—it instantly relieves piles, bruises, insect bites, chafed and itching skin—it banishes pimples, blackheads and Eczema in a few days.

One 35 cent box proves it — all drugstores.

Robert Phillips of New Salem, Ind., writes. "For 18 years I had an old fever sore on my ankle. I spent hundreds of dollars on it and found no relief. I saw your ad and tried Peterson's Ointment—it gave me ease and enabled me to sleep for first time in 7 weeks. I kept using it and now my leg is sound and well, thanks to you."—Adv.

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

better after school

HAVE a bowl of Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes waiting for the children after school.

A wonderful health dish—full of whole-wheat nourishment—just enough bran to be mildly laxative—and the famous flavor of PEP. That's what makes them known as better bran flakes.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Lost Doll Brings Tears but Santa Returns Smiles

Juanita Underwood found Santa Claus. And was Dr. C. J. Nichols of north State street surprised and not a little non-plussed to find his disguise penetrated by such a precocious little 3-year-old girl.

The story is one of the boasts of the child's father, David L. Underwood, assistant in the office of County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens.

Last Christmas Juanita was given a doll. She handled the plaster infant with such abandon that her parents decided to lay it away until Juanita was more versed in the proprieties of "playing dolly." When Juanita demanded to know where her "baby" had gone, she was told that Santa Claus had taken it back.

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood took Juanita on a walk through Marion cemetery. Dr. Nichols, former mayor of Marion who possesses an unusually white and luxuriant beard, also had chosen Sunday and the Marion cemetery for his stroll.

Juanita spied the doctor and breaking away from her parents rushed up to him, crying as she ran, "I want my dolly back."

Dr. Nichols was confused and pleased. Not everyone is so instantly recognized as the patron saint of children. His pleasure increased when Mr. Underwood drew him aside and told him the story leading up to the demand of 3-year-old Juanita.

Not to spoil Juanita's illusion, Dr. Nichols gave her a real Santa Claus talk and bade her goodbye, leaving in her hand a shiny penny to remember her meeting with Santa.

LEARN FROM MY EXPERIENCE

"I HAVE found that using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly is the surest way to keep the members of my family from being constipated." Millions of users have found that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN guarantees sure relief from both temporary and recurring constipation.

Pills and drugs, as a rule, have to be taken in mounting doses—or they become useless.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN offers you natural, safe relief from the headaches, the dizziness, the loss of energy that accompany constipation. And it also furnishes iron, which helps put color in cheeks and lips.

Try it with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too.

At all grocers, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Yale Watches Over Health of Students

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Many are the safeguards thrown about the Yale student's person, chief among them being those which are intended to guard his health. Working in a great building in the heart of the university Yale's department of university health examines every student at least once a year, encourages them to report even the slightest pain, treats them for mental as well as body conditions, and builds them up or reduces them as occasion may require.

No use of government control in anything if you can't control the government.

Lost Doll Brings Tears but Santa Returns Smiles

Juanita Underwood found Santa Claus. And was Dr. C. J. Nichols of north State street surprised and not a little non-plussed to find his disguise penetrated by such a precocious little 3-year-old girl.

The story is one of the boasts of the child's father, David L. Underwood, assistant in the office of County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens.

Last Christmas Juanita was given a doll. She handled the plaster infant with such abandon that her parents decided to lay it away until Juanita was more versed in the proprieties of "playing dolly." When Juanita demanded to know where her "baby" had gone, she was told that Santa Claus had taken it back.

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood took Juanita on a walk through Marion cemetery. Dr. Nichols, former mayor of Marion who possesses an unusually white and luxuriant beard, also had chosen Sunday and the Marion cemetery for his stroll.

Juanita spied the doctor and breaking away from her parents rushed up to him, crying as she ran, "I want my dolly back."

Dr. Nichols was confused and pleased. Not everyone is so instantly recognized as the patron saint of children. His pleasure increased when Mr. Underwood drew him aside and told him the story leading up to the demand of 3-year-old Juanita.

Not to spoil Juanita's illusion, Dr. Nichols gave her a real Santa Claus talk and bade her goodbye, leaving in her hand a shiny penny to remember her meeting with Santa.

Epworth Men's Chorus To Sing Over Radio

MERCHANTS GET LEGION FLAGS

Post Distributes Sixty New Banners with Staffs in Drive.

A majority of Marion merchants are now able to display American flags of a standard size on all important patriotic holidays, following a recent campaign of the flag committee of the local American Legion post to outfit merchants with flag kits.

Sixty new kits, including a flag four by six feet in dimensions on a 12 foot pole sized to fit a socket in the sidewalk near the curb, have been sold through the committee in its recent drive, according to Fred Berg, chairman of the flag committee.

Seventy-five merchants already had purchased similar outfits before the campaign was started.

A number of merchants are taking advantage of a flag service furnished by the post at a small annual cost. The service is purchased on contract by the merchant, and provides that the post shall display flags in front of their stores on the six important patriotic holidays of the year and four other occasions subject to request. Under this contract, the post furnishes the necessary flags, stores them between holidays, and sets them in position on Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday, flag day, Memorial day, July 4 and Armistice day. On the other four days, the high school flag may be substituted. Boy Scout troop No 5, sponsored by the Legion, is in charge of this service.

The Legion also can furnish home flag kits consisting of a socket an eight-foot pole and a flag three by five feet in dimensions.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, May 29

A LIVELY day, but with the purely personal interests and activities accentuated in the presage based upon the ruling lunar transits. Social, domestic, romantic and cultural pursuits and engagements may be accelerated, or those lines of business having these for basis. New undertakings in this direction are under promising configurations, as are correspondence or literary activities.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the private activities may be paramount, with social, domestic, romantic or intellectual affairs engaging the attention. These and business relating to them should thrive and give much pleasure and personal profit, although discretion is enjoyed. A child born on this day should be gracious, charming and popular, with its talents leaning toward society or art, in which it may attain a measure of distinction. It should be instructed in standards of discretion and prudence lest it be menaced by excessive pleasure and extravagance, as well as expedient measures of conduct.

ASKS FOR FLOWERS TO DECORATE GRAVES

Boy Scouts To Collect Blooms Early Saturday Morning.

Flowers and flower girls will be needed in the Memorial day parade Saturday afternoon, the Memorial day committee on flowers announced today. The committee depends upon the public for its floral tributes to the soldiers' graves.

The graves in Marion cemetery will be decorated Saturday afternoon following the parade to the cemetery and services there.

This year a call has been sent out for 200 girls to march in the parade carrying the flowers. An age limit has not been set, but tiny children will not be permitted to march, because of the distance. The girls will be given transportation home from the cemetery.

Boy Scout troops will spread out over the city Saturday at 7 a. m. to begin collecting flowers. The Scouts will meet at the courthouse at that time and will start operations from there.

The flower committee includes Mrs. Elmer Smith, Mrs. Maude Jacoby, Mrs. Emma Zeig, Mrs. Ella Davison, Mrs. George Parish, Mrs. Edith Wilmuth, Mrs. Ed. Mason, Arthur S. Brooks, Boy Scout executive, Ralph Emmons, scout master and Floyd G. Browne, chairman of the committee. Members of the committee are to meet at the courthouse Saturday at 8 a. m.

Girls who march in the parade have been asked to meet at the courthouse Saturday not later than 12:30 p. m. From there they will go to Central Junior High school to form in parade line at 1 p. m. and be ready to march at 1:15, the time scheduled for the parade to start.

THREE entries in the Commercial softball league continue to boast unblemished slates today, following victories recorded yesterday in the play-off of postponed gams. The Kappas, Serv-U-Wel and Prospect Firemen have all chalked up a pair of victories in as many starts. The fourth team to win yesterday was the Erie Traffic club which turned in a 9 to 0 shutout against the Wesley Juniors. The victory gives the railroaders an even break in two games to date.

Results of the other three games yesterday are as follows: Kappas, 14, K. of P. 4; Serv-U-Wel 3, General Excavator 2; and Prospect 8, Company B 6.

Kappas Win Easily

Figured to give the Kappas a fairly tough struggle the K. of P nine started out to do just that thing but before the third inning of the game was completed it became evident that they were failing to accomplish their purpose. The Kappas took a two run lead in the first and saw it lost when the K. of P. nine brought in four runs in the second. However from then on the losers were never in the game. Pounding Bob Peadon hard, the Kappas chalked up 12 runs in the last five innings of the game. Gene Gunder led the hitters of both teams with four safe hits in five times at bat

The General Excavator team threw considerable of a scare into the Serv-U-Wel grocers before succumbing by the close score of 3-2. The Excavators took a two run lead in the first and held it until Shields clouted a four bagger with one on in the fourth. Cornely added another homer to break the tie and win the game in the sixth inning.

Firemen Victors

Prospect Firemen kept themselves in the undefeated class by handing Company B's soldier boys an 8-6 beating. The Firemen gathered most of the runs in the first few innings of the game and were not particularly hard-pressed to hold their lead in the later frames.

The Wesley Juniors, who promise to finish the season in the league cellar, took another walloping, this time from the Erie Traffic club. The final score was 9 to 0 and that just about tells the story.

CAR AIDS GROOMING MOUNTS AS STARTING TIME OF RACE NEARS

Memorial Day Auto Speed Classic To Have Fastest Field in History.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28—Automobile parts were scattered all over the garages at the Indianapolis motor speedway today as starters in the 500-mile race to be run Saturday were given their final thorough inspection.

Most of the drivers—among them the world's most famous pilots—merely looked on as their mechanics reached into the power plants to make certain that everything was in correct adjustment.

All of the cars were due for a short run on the track some time during the day to check carburetion, shock absorbers and performance The track was to be closed at 4 p. m for its annual chemical bath to remove oil and other hazards

Qualification and elimination trials began last Saturday and ended yesterday, and out of them came the fastest field that ever won places in the starting lineup of a 500-mile race. Thirty-eight of the 39 gasoline-powered cars averaged better than 100 miles an hour, the exception missed the century mark by only a fraction of a mile an hour.

The fortieth car in the race is the Cummins oil-burner, which qualified at 96 871 miles per hour. It had only to do 80 miles an hour under the rules, while the gasoline-motored type had to attain a minimum of 90 miles per hour.

Never before in the history of a 500-mile race has the competition for a chance at the $100,000 prize money been so keen. Six cars that had bettered the minimum qualifying speed were eliminated by faster entries.

Qualification trials disclosed that part stock cars have been speeded up considerably since last year. Ten of the starters Saturday will be part-stock.

Veterans of years race driving and youngsters who are just beginning to make names in the speed world will pilot the cars Saturday. In the class of nationally known drivers are Billy Arnold, Russell Snowberger, Shorty Cantlon, Leon Duray, Louis Meyer, Babe Stapp and Ralph Hepburn. The up and coming youngsters includue Wild Bill Cummings, Francis Quinn and Billy Winn.

Dayton Woman Victor in State Golf Tourney

By The Associated Press

GRANVILLE, O., May 28—The title in the 36-hole womens state handicap golf tournament today rested with Mrs. L. E. Nelson of the Miami Valley Country club of Dayton, after her finish yesterday in the final 18 holds with 94 for a total card of 181. There were 44 entries.

Mrs. Julian Tyler of Cleveland finished in the runnerup position with 186, while the defending champion, Miss Mary Hauck of Toledo ended in fifth place with 191. Ahead of her were Mrs. Curtis Sohl of Columbus, with 187, and Mrs. E. W. Hughes of Cleveland, 188.

THE resignation of Jay Winters as head coach of Bucyrus High school removes one of the best liked and most efficient coaches of the North Central Ohio scholastic league. Winters, it was announced yesterday, will leave Bucyrus for a similar position at Findlay High school.

The fact that Findlay has seen fit to lure Winters from his Bucyrus post at a reported higher salary figure than he has been getting is a recommendation in itself that carries no little weight. Findlay is not in the habit of jumping haphazardly at conclusions in the choosing of its athletic directors. The record compiled by the school in the last few years furnishes sufficient evidence to substantiate that statement.

Winters has a real job cut out for him in his new post. Every possible assistance will be given him to enable him to produce the thing Findlay is after—namely, winning athletic teams. Here's hoping he'll come through.

* * *

Winter's resignation causes what is likely to be the only vacancy in the North Central circuit this year. Mansfield has already rehired Murphy. Young has indicated, it is reported, that he will again be at Shelby next year, Starn is likely to again direct Ashland, McClintock is almost certain to stay at Galion and Bohyer will again make another effort to drag Harding from its present state of athletic lethargy.

* * *

The first of the really "croocial" games of the Industrial league softball circuit is scheduled for today on the Garfield park diamond between the C., D. & M. Electricians and the Huber [illegible] facturing company. It will not necessarily follow that whichever one wins this game will win the league pennant but it will mean that the winner has hurdled a serious obstacle on the title path. The ultimate winner is a toss-up but I'm naming the Huber to come through with a victory. The result will be close, regardless of which team wins.

* * *

Although the above-mentioned contest almost completely overshadows them, there are three other games booked for the Industrial league today. Two of them are almost certain to be fairly even but the third does not look so good. The Erie Roundhouse plays the Silk Mill and should chalk up its first win in three starts. The Shovel nine is not expected to experience particular difficulty in downing Fairfield and the Gas Company is named to take the measure of the C. & O. solely on the basis of what appears to be a more powerful offensive attack on the part of the pipeliners.

M'GRAWMEN WIN FROM BOSTON 7-4 AS RED BIRDS LOSE 4-0

Cubs Move Into Third Position; Cleveland Rallies To Beat Browns.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a long, hard haul for John McGraw and his New York Giants, but they finally have reached the top of the National league percentage column.

After having flirted with the leadership for a week, during which common sense at times told them they were ahead but the figures told them differently, they removed the last doubt by trimming the Boston Braves yesterday, 7 to 4, while the St. Louis Cardinals were receiving a blanking from Pittsburgh, 4 to 0.

The Giants were out in front by a game and a half today.

Homer Aids Rally

Frank Hogan, husky Giant catcher, and Heinie Meine, Pittsburgh right hander, collaborated to change the complexion of the race. Hogan warped one of Socks Seibold's choicest curves into the stands with two on base to climax a four-run Giant rally in the third inning from which the Braves never recovered.

Meine set the Cardinals down with eight scattered hits, all singles, to hang up his fourth straight victory.

Boston's third straight loss to the Giants cost Bill McKechnie's hopefuls their hold on third place. The Chicago Cubs, by downing Cincinati, 8 to 4, moved in.

After having seen their lengthy winning streak clipped the previous day, the Philadelphia Athletics got right back on the victory trail with a 6 to 5 decision over the Yankees. Bing Miller doubled with the bases loaded in the eighth to score Cochrane and Simmons with the winning runs. Cochrane contributed his eighth home run of the year.

Senators in Second

Walt Johnson's Washington Senators took advantage of the opportunity to move into second place. Their double victory over the Boston Red Sox, 11 to 3, and 4 to 3, put them a game ahead of the Yankees and four and one-half games off the top.

The Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader with Detroit by scores of 5 to 4 and 10 to 1. Pat Caraway's pitching in the second tilt featured the day. In addition to holding the Tigers to five hits to score his sixth victory of the season, he led the Sox attack with three singles and a double and scored three runs.

The Cleveland Indians produced a similar punch in the ninth round to take their third straight from St. Louis, 5 to 4. Held to one run until the ninth the Indians came back to drive Sam Gray from the hill and win on Burnett's climatic single.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia were not scheduled in the National.

Jimmy M'Larnin Whips Petrolle in Return Bout

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 28 — Jimmy McLarnin's come-back, by way of a decisive victory over Billy Petrolle, satisfied the master minds of fightdom today that there are still plenty of customers available, providing they have the proper fistic inducement.

A crowd of 18,000 packed Madison Square garden to see McLarnin turn the tables on Petrolle last night and gain the unanimous verdict of Referee Arthur Donovan and two judges after ten alternately bristling and mediocre rounds of scrapping.

The gate receipts of $82,377 set a new "high" for 1931.

McLarnin waged a cool and calculating fight, designed to frustrate the rushes of Petrolle.

Despite an injured right hand, Jimmy's plan of campaign was sufficiently effective to give him a clean-cut margin in six of the 10 rounds. Three of the others went to Petrolle and one appeared even.

There were many dull and supercautious minutes of sparring that brought disapproving boos from the crowd, but the roars rocked the rafters as McLarnin clouted and cut Petrolle with punishing drives in the third, fourth and ninth. Jimmy was unable to put his rival down, or take the sting from Billy's counter-thrusts.

JUST KIDS — BY AD CARTER

SAY-MUSH- ARE YUH REALLY ENGAGED TO ANGELICA O'TOOLE?
AN' WHAT IF I AM?
HEY-FELLERS- MUSH IS ENGAGED TO ANGELICA O'TOOLE!
MUSH IS ENGAGED MUSH AN' HA-HA! HA HA! ANGELICA- HA HA-HO HO!
AND LOOK WHOS COMING ALONG!
I'LL TEND TO THIS!

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

WELL- MR. SCOOGE- YOU SENT FOR ME- AND HERE I AM- A SHORT TIME AGO- MR. TOM CARR- WHOM I HAD ADVISED ME TO INVEST EVERY PENNY I COULD SCRAPE UP IN HIS STOCK- I PAWNED MY LAST JEWEL- AND BOUGHT TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF STOCK- HE ADVISED ME TO BUY MORE- I CAME TO YOU AND TRIED TO BORROW ANOTHER TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS- AND WHAT HAPPENED? YOU TOLD ME TO GET OUT OF YOUR OFFICE- AND STAY OUT!
EXACTLY- THOSE ARE THE VERY WORDS I USED-
WELL- I BORROWED THAT MONEY ON MY LIFE INSURANCE- WHICH MADE TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF STOCK THAT I OWNED- AND SINCE THEN- I GUESS YOU KNOW WHAT HAS HAPPENED- THE STOCK IS NOW WORTH TWENTY-FIVE TIMES ITS VALUE- YOU HOLD A NOTE SIGNED BY ME TO PAY YOU A LARGE SUM AT 400% INTEREST- TO BE PAID SIX MONTHS AFTER MY MARRIAGE- I AM IN LOVE WITH TOM CARR- I WILL GIVE YOU ALL OF MY STOCK WHICH I HAVE HERE- VALUED AT $500,000.00 FOR THAT NOTE- WILL YOU ACCEPT THE STOCK AND GIVE ME THE NOTE OR WILL YOU TAKE A CHANCE ON MY MARRYING TOM?
I'LL TAKE THE STOCK-
AND NOW WE ARE SQUARE- I HAVE GIVEN YOU THE STOCK- ALL THAT I HAVE IN THE WORLD- AND IN RETURN YOU HAVE GIVEN ME THE NOTE- A RECEIPT IN FULL FOR ALL THAT I OWE YOU-
ONE HALF A MILLION-
THE NOTE

TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY

COLONEL HOOFER HAS PUT IN A LONG DISTANCE CALL TO LARRY CHIX AT GOPHER CENTER, ALABAMA, AND IS ANXIOUSLY WAITING FOR THE 'PHONE TO RING!
LARRY SHOULD HAVE RETURNED HERE LAST WEEK, CASPER- I WONDER WHAT THE DELAY IS? I'M TO GET HALF OF HIS EARNINGS, AND I'VE A LOT OF FAT CONTRACTS AWAITING HIS SIGNATURE! HIS DELAY IS COSTING HIM AND ME A LOT OF DOUGH THAT WE SHOULD BE GETTING!
AH! THERE'S THE 'PHONE RINGING! IT MUST BE YOUR CALL!
© 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
HELLO, LARRY? THIS IS COLONEL HOOFER! WHEN ARE YOU COMING BACK, LARRY? YOU OUGHT TO BE HERE, SO WE CAN GET THE DOUGH WHILE THE GETTING IS GOOD!
WHAT'S THAT?
AW, DON'T SAY THAT, LARRY!!! SURELY, YOU DON'T MEAN WHAT YOU'RE SAYING—!!! THINK OF THE MONEY! I WON'T BELIEVE THAT'S FINAL! I WON'T BELIEVE IT—
TOOTS! BRING THE SMELLING SALTS! QUICK!! COLONEL HOOFER HAS FAINTED!!
!!
WHAT DID LARRY CHIX SAY THAT CAUSED COLONEL HOOFER TO KEEL OVER IN A COLD FAINT

DRUGS AND SUNDRIES

Lower's Pharmacy,
W. Center and Leader Sts.,
Marion, Ohio.

Dear Sir:
I have been a sufferer from ulceration and irritation of the stomach and bowels for 20 years. I have tried all remedies that I have heard about, with slight improvement.
Sometime ago, my attention was called to Yellow Root & Clay which I have consistently used. I have taken five bottles and can say that I feel that I am cured of the dreadful malady that afflicted me.
I live at 394 Olney av., Marion, and am employed as a toolmaker at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. I will gladly verify this testimonial upon request.
(Signed) H. B. Jones.
This is one of many encouraging reports received from those to whom we have sold Yellow Root & Clay. If you are a sufferer from Ulcers irritation or colitis, try this really wonderful remedy.

Mr. Clifton Lower,
Lower's Pharmacy,
W. Center and Leader Sts.
Dear Mr. Lower:
I greatly appreciate this opportunity of saying a few words regarding the benefit I have derived from taking Diamond Blood Capsules, purchased at your drugstore. I am 20 years old and reside at 767 Bennett st., this city. I was born in Marion. I have a large number of friends and acquaintances that know me, especially at the Commercial Steel Casting Co. They remember me as being troubled with anemia with an unsightly skin disturbances, the result of bad blood conditions. Prior to taking Diamond Blood Capsules I spent $500 to $600 with serum treatments, etc., without any special benefit. During the last two years my condition was such that I was frequently unable to work for many days at a time. Cliff Walters of Leader st., a friend, directed my attention to Diamond Blood Capsules. Three months ago, I purchased my first bottle of capsules at your store. In all to date I have taken three large bottles. Believe it or not, my skin is clearing up. My strength is better than at any other time in my life. My blood is back to normal. You have my full permission to use this letter publicly in order that others now suffering may be able to regain their health.
Respectfully
Willard Larcom.
The above letter is an example of the reception accorded our Diamond Blood Building Capsules.
Concentrated liver with all its properties for producing rich new blood combined with cleansing agencies to drive poison and impurities from your system and cleanse your blood and you have the story of Damond Blood Building capsules.
For them, we do not claim they are a "cure-all," but we do claim that regardles of the nature of your ailment, if you are in a weakened condition of any sort or failing in any way, you will not make a mistake in taking Diamond Blood Building capsules.

STOCKS FAIL TO KEEP GAINS

Market Unable To Take Advantage of Uneasiness of Bearish Traders.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 28—Bears showed further uneasiness in today's stock market but share prices were unable to show sustained rallying power.

Shares moved up 1 to 3 points after a brief decline in the first hour, only to encounter further selling pressure after midday. Resistance to the downward movement soon developed however. The fact that the stock exchange questionnaire on bear selling must be returned to the committee on business conduct today presumably inspired a wave of short covering around midday.

U. S. Steel dropped 2 points to another new low close to 90, regained its loss, sold off, and recovered again. Utilities, chemicals and motion picture shares were prominent in the advance. The upturn in the severely depressed motion pictures was a notable development. Warner Bros. and Loews gained more than 1½ points, and Paramount and Fox gained 1. At their best prices, shares showing gains of 2 to 3 ponits included American Telephone, Johns Manville, Republic Service of N. J., Consolidated Gas, Air Reduction, Lambert, Union Carbide, Union Pacific, Westinghouse Electric, Case, Eastman and American Tobacco B.

Opinions as to the extent of the short interest is still highly mixed. If the stock exchange discovers a greatly over-extended short interest, Wall Street will look for a sharp rebound. The results of the questionnaire presumably will not be made public for some time, if at all, and its showing will probably be apparent only in the action of the market.

Several brokers are warning their customers to beware of the short side at this time, pointing out that within 10 weeks, the autumn stimulus to business will be felt, and that the stock market usually discounts such seasonal movements in trade some weeks in advance

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Today found both fruit and vegetable prices unchanged with large supplies of all kinds available. New potatoes continue to sell at from 40 to 60 cents a peck in spite of predictions of an advance made by dealers last week. The supply continues to be greater than the demand and prospects of an immediate advance, are not good, dealers say.

Strawberries continue plentiful. A few Kentucky berries were on the market today that were selling at from 25 to 35 cents a quart. Cantaloupes are becoming more plentiful and dealers were reporting an increase in sales today at from 15 to 25 cents

WHEAT PRICE IN UPTREND

Rally Follows Wavering Start on Chicago Pit; Corn Moves Up.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 28—Grains advanced early today after a wavering start. Drouth complaints from Canada continued, and fears were expressed that much winter wheat from the Texas panhandle northward to Nebraska would have to depend mostly on surface moisture as a result of premature aging of roots. Opening ⅛ cents off to ⅛ up, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started at ⅛ decline to ⅛@⅜ advance and subsequently averaged higher.

Wheat traders took special notice of a statement by a Chicago crop expert just returned from an extensive observation trip southwest and west, who asserted that owing to abnormal early growth domestic winter wheat plants throughout large areas were unable to draw moisture from the subsoil He said the districts affected must rely on whatever mosture supplies came from other intermittent sources hereafter for a duration of 10 days in southern sections to 20 days in the north. It was added that the domestic winter wheat harvest in general promised to be no earlier than usual.

Canadian advices were received that drouth in spring wheat territory was now at a stage where conditions in the next week or 10 days would have a big bearing on the final outcome. To offset severe moisture deficiency and to check widespread dust blowing, exceptionally heavy rains were needed at once. Otherwise, crop deterioration was certain. Corn and oats rose with wheat and in consequence of scarcity of corn offerings.

Provisions reflected weakness of hog values.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS SETTLED BY PARTIES

Automobile Accident Case Dropped as Agreement Is Reached.

Settlement of two suits for damages aggregating $32,500, growing out of an automobile accident on the Mt. Gilead road near Claridon, was effected in common pleas court this morning as the case of Beryle Bachelder against William Haley was being tried before a jury. Terms of the settlements were not revealed.

Miss Bachelder sought $7,500 for alleged permanent injuries in the collision in which an automobile in which she was a passenger collided with another automobile driven by Haley.

A suit brought by Roie Bachelder for $25,000 damages in the same accident was settled simultaneously, according to attorneys.

Settlement was made as Miss Bachelder's witnesses were completing their testimony. No defense witnesses testified. Jurors in the case, which began yesterday, were Mrs. Scot Howison, W. W. Jack, Dan L. LaMarche, Kathleen M. Vance, Theodore E. Kinnear, M. R. Swisher, Jerry Darmody, Carl May, A. W. Bryant, J. W. Schwaderer, Fred Morrison and T. N. Porter.

The law firm of Carhart & Warner represented the Bachelders. The law firm of Deeds & Cole of Toledo was Haley's counsel.

Sues Administrator

Suit for $200 in annual premiums on a bond which Claude S. Terry furnished as administrator of the estate of General Worth Paddock has been filed in common pleas court by the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Co. Stanley D. Terry, administrator of the estate of Claude S. Terry, is named defendant.

The insurance company asserts that Claude S. Terry had agreed to pay $25 a year premium on the bond required in probate court for him to act as administrator, and also charges he has not paid any of the premiums. The law firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery represent the insurance company.

Sues for Divorce

Charging her husband treated her with cruelty and that he gave her only $9.40 during a period of 30 days for herself and child, Rosa Dennison has filed a petition for divorce against John D. Dennison in common pleas court. She asks divorce, alimony and custody of their minor child. Frank Wiedemann represents Mrs. Dennison.

TWO BOUND OVER

Columbus Colored Men Held to Grand Jury.

William Carter, 24, and James Carter, 25, both colored, giving their addresses as Columbus, were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each when they pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to charges of grand larceny.

They were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Chester Cosgrove who reported they had taken high tension electric wire from the Evans stone quarry near Garden City pike. They were burning insulation from the wire when arrested, Deputy Cosgrove said.

Unable to furnish bond, they were taken to the jail to await action of the grand jury.

None Believed Injured When 2 Cars Collide

Occupants of two machines which came together late last night on the Bucyrus pike, were not seriously hurt it was believed today after a check had been made of the records of hospitals and physicians in Bucyrus and Marion showed that no one had received treatment for accident injuries early this morning.

The two cars, one a Studebaker roadster in which two women were riding, bore license plate No. E17-632 issued at New Richmond, O., and the other, a Willys-Knight, bore license No. 90-270, issued by the Columbus Auto club. The Willys-Knight was brought to the Haberman Chevrolet garage here and the roadster was taken to a Bucyrus garage. Persons who viewed the accident later said it was possible that the cars had sideswiped. The two women stopped a car enroute to Bucyrus, and arranged to have their car towed to a garage there.

See How Results That Konjola Gives Have Come To Stay—Test This Remarkable Medicine

Mr. John Reed

Mr. John Reed, 443 West South Street, Indianapolis, makes this interesting statement: "I suffered terribly from gas pains after eating. A sluggish liver and weak kidneys brought on rheumatism. This went on for three years, and then Konjola relieved all of these ailments, after a months' treatment. This happened over a year ago and none of my troubles ever returned."

Konjola was equally effective in the case of Mrs. Margaret Guilkey, 976 Pleasant Run Parkway, Indianapolis, Ind. She says: "For seven years stomach condition and bowel disorders had me in a weakened condition. I suffered severely from rheumatism, heart-palpitation, headaches and dizzy spells. Konjola ended all these ailments after a short treatment and none of them has since returned."

JUNE SKY IS INTERESTING STUDY

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

URBANA, Ill. — Have you noticed the Northern Crown and the Northern Cross in the eastern sky in the early evening? The "butterfly" of Hercules can be seen also, and the V-shaped head of the Dragon.

These famous starry configurations are as easy to find as the Great Dipper.

After dark on some clear evening in June, when the moon is not too bright, look toward the east.

Almost overhead there is a semi-circle of stars. The separate stars are not extremely bright, but the figure that they form attracts the attention. It is Corona, the Northern Crown.

Vega is the brightest star in the eastern sky at this season; it is slightly north of east and well up above the horizon.

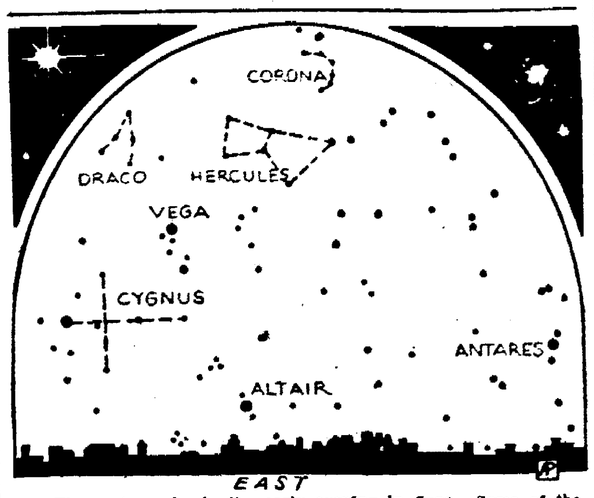
"Butterfly" of Hercules

Halfway from the half circle of Corona toward this star is the "butterfly" of Hercules. It is not difficult to imagine here in the sky a butterfly with outstretched wings.

With the telescope directed toward this constellation the observer can view its most interesting feature, the great cluster in Hercules.

It is a ball of tens and probably hundreds of thousands of suns at the distance of 34,000 light years, among the nearest of the globular clusters which inhabit the outskirts of the great system of the Milky Way. The eye alone sees little or nothing of this cluster.

Vega is a white star and one of our neighbors. Its relatively small distance of 26 light years partly accounts for its brilliancy in our skies, but not entirely. For if our sun were placed beside this star it would be only faintly visible to the naked eye.



The eastern sky in the early evening in June. Some of the configurations for the star gazer to look for are shown: Corona, the Northern Crown, the "butterfly" of Hercules, the V-shaped head of Draco, the Dragon and others. Vega is the brightest star.

Showplace of Summer

The constellation Lyra contains Vega and the stars around it.

Its ring nebula, quite invisible to the eye alone, appears in the telescope, somewhat like a luminous doughnut; it is one of the showplaces of the summer skies which is often exhibited to the visitor at the observatory during this season.

Lyra stands about midway between Hercules and Cygnus, whose most prominent starry configuration is the familiar Northern Cross. The Cross is rising in the northeast at nightfall on the first of June, its long axis horizontal.

These are among the summer constellations which will be visible throughout this season. With these for a beginning and a simple star map, it is easy to recognize the others.

Aquila with its bright star Altair is found rising directly in the east as the sky grows dark. In the southeast Scorpio is coming into view with its bright red star Antares.

In Western Skies

The planet Jupiter, in the constellation Gemini, is the brightest object in the western sky in June.

Mars is farther east, in Leo. Saturn, in Sagittarius, rises in the southeast before midnight.

Venus is a morning star, rising in the northeast an hour and a half before the sun.

BUCYRUS YOUTH, 18, ENDS LIFE IN SHED

Body of Floyd D. Fahl Found by Friends; Unemployment Blamed.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS May 28—Lloyd D. Fahl, 18-year-old Bucyrus youth, hung himself last night in a wagon shed on the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fahl of 423 Southern avenue. The family said he had been despondent since being thrown out of work.

The young man and three companions, Miss Maxine Williams, Miss Evelyn Hindle and James Bauer all of Bucyrus, left the city last night soon after the dinner hour to see the bridge at Upper Sandusky which had given way under a heavy truck and trailer, yesterday morning.

On the way home, the four stopped at the Fahl farm home five miles west of Bucyrus and young Lloyd excused himself from the party. The three young people waited nearly 20 minutes for his return and then Bauer went in search for him.

He found the body hanging from a beam in a wagon shed. Fahl was dead when discovered.

Fahl was employed at the Central Delivery Co. until some time ago when he was laid off. Since that time he had been working with his father on their farm.

Besides his parents he leaves a brother Curtis at home and three sisters, Mrs. David Aller and Mrs. Lena Margraff of Bucyrus and Mrs. Carrie Mitchelson of Pontiac, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the home on Southern street with Rev. Robert Graetz officiating. Interment will be made in the Oakwood cemetery.

TO USE CITY WAGONS IN CLEANUP DRIVE

Garbage Department Machines To Gather Rubbish from Curb.

In an effort to help in disposing of the accumulation of rubbish as the result of the cleanup campaign, Service Director D. J. Harlow said this morning that trucks from the city garbage collection department, next week and on two days of the following week, would gather ashes and rubbish from those who are not regular subscribers to the service.

In fairness to those who are regular subscribers, however, the service director said a charge of ten cents would be made for each basket of ashes or rubbish.

The city has been divided into districts for the purpose and on Monday the work will be started in that section of the city north of Center and east of Main street. A truck with a large trailer will be used and the service director has requested that all of those desiring the service have their baskets or other containers along the curb in front of their homes, or in some easily reached place.

On Wednesday and Thursday the truck will work in the territory north of Center and west of Main, and on Friday and Saturday in the territory south of Center and west of Main and on the following Monday in the section south of Center and east of Main.

DROP BIRTH TOPIC

Controversial Subject Eliminated as Presbyterian Assembly Meets.

By United Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 28—With its most controversial question — birth control — eliminated from discussion, the 143rd general assembly of the Presbyterian church was opened officially here today.

In special executive session the committee on marriage, divorce and remarriage voted to eliminate all reference to birth control in its report to the general assembly.

The action of the committee followed protest from leaders of the church. Heated objections to the proposal to approve birth control and dissemination of related knowledge had been received by the committee.

The opening session was purely religious in character.

ASK NEW HEARING

Bus Line Officials Move to Reopen Application.

The Pennsylvania General Transit Co., sponsoring an intra-state bus line joining Marion with other Ohio cities, has applied to the utilities commission for rehearing on an earlier order of the commission denying permission to open the proposed route, according to United Press dispatches from Columbus.

The company said in its application that the commission's order was contrary to law. In its order, the commission held that cities on the proposed route had adequate service.

The proposed route, one of two sought by the company, connected Columbiana, Sebring, Alliance, East Liverpool, Lisbon, Canton, Massillon, Wooster, Haysville, Mansfield, Galion, Marion, Kenton, Delphos and Van Wert. Terminals of the other proposed route are Steubenville and Cincinnati.

UNION HEAD SPEAKS HERE

Central Labor Group Hears Machinist at Meeting in Hall.

Edward W. Wiesner, general chairman of the International Association of Machinists of the Erie railroad, who was the speaker at the meeting of Marion Central Labor Union last night, said that all indications pointed that the bottom of the depression had been reached and that more regular employment was expected during the coming months.

An appeal to furnish flowers for soldiers' graves on Memorial day was made at the meeting by Vernon E. Goff, chairman of the Memorial day committee.

The organization also took steps to investigate promotors who, representing themselves as Labor Journal salesmen, have been selling advertising space here. Scott Wilkins, chairman of the educational committee, was appointed to make the investigation.

BURRIS TO TALK

On Ashley Memorial Program Saturday Morning.

ASHLEY, May 28—Rev. M. A. Burris will deliver the patriotic address at the annual Memorial day services to be held at the M. E. church Saturday at 10 a. m. "America" by the audience; the invocation will be given by Rev. W. M. Shoemaker; selection by the Harmony Boys' quartet composed of Edwin and Arthur Burch, Lowell Riley and Thomas Lea; reading by Roselyn Kelly; exercise by five girls; recitation by Forest Henry; dialogue by Joan Lea and Mary Jane Barber; recitation by Billy Savage; reading, Wilbur McDowell; patriotic address; and the song "The Star Spangled Banner" will conclude the services at the church.

Voting seems a trivial thing to a good many women, after they have tried it several times and observed the results of the election.

700 GRADE SCHOOL PUPILS IN CONCERT

Large Audience Hears Program of Vocal and Instrumental Numbers.

Promise of Harding High school's future musical groups was forecast last night in the concert given at Chautauqua pavilion by the chorus, band and orchestra of the Marion public schools.

The short program gave each of the three groups an opportunity to show the large audience something of what has been done in the regular school music periods in the last year. The platform was filled with more than 700 boys and girls from the sixth through the ninth grades, the girls in white and the boys in light shirts and dark ties.

The quality of the singing and playing was worthy of the efforts of T. R. Evans, director of music and his assistants, Miss Doris Gump and Hamer D. Mitchell.

Five numbers played by the 90-piece orchestra under the direction of Mr. Evans, opened the program. The orchestra was quickly shifted to be replaced by the 45-piece band directed by Mr. Evans and Mr. Mitchell. The band played four pieces, three marches and an overture.

The boys' chorus filled the front of the platform left vacant by the band and joined with the girls' chorus in singing five numbers, two with no piano accompaniment. Each of the choruses sang one number alone. Miss Wanda Mahan played the piano accompaniments. Miss Gump directed the chorus singing.

Friendship Circle Meets with Mrs. Carey Osborn

GREEN CAMP, May 28—The Friendship circle of the Rebekah lodge held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carey Osborn, west of Green Camp.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Martin Ward. She also had charge of the devotions and read the twenty-first Psalm.

It was decided that the next meeting would be at the home of Mrs. Charles Ritzler in the form of a picnic supper the last Tuesday in June.

Hold Baptismal Services at River

Baptismal services at the Hocking Valley bridge west of town were held yesterday at sunset by Rev. B. E. Hillman, pastor of Full Gospel Assembly. Robert, Byron and Francis Toombs were baptized.

Rev. Hillman will preach his farewell sermon, "If I Go I Will Come Again," tonight at 7:45. He will leave Friday on an extended vacation in the west. Three members, Harlan Million, Mrs. Eva Johnson of Delaware and Mrs. Ida Mae Darst of Delaware have been added to the church roster.

Mt. Gilead Man Not Guilty, Is Verdict

A jury of seven women and five men in Springfield yesterday found Forest Dickson of Mt. Gilead not guilty of a charge of holding up the Sears, Roebuck & Co. store there March 26.

Dickson was charged with taking $280 from the cashier of the store at closing time. He was defended by Attorney L. E. Myers.

History is full of mistakes—and will continue to be.

ENTERS BANKRUPTCY

Petition in voluntary bankruptcy has been filed in federal court at Toledo by Marion A. Leffler, a bus operator of Canby court. He lists debts of $827.97 and no assets. He is represented by Attorney L. E. Myers.

ADVANCED REFRIGERATION

You needn't do a daily dozen to reach the rice pudding in a Frigidaire!

Every part of every food shelf of a Frigidaire may be easily reached without acrobatics. Even the back of the bottom-most one is accessible—you need never stoop down as though you were about to touch your toes!

All Frigidaire food shelves are elevated—far enough from the floor to do away with tiresome bending-over . . .

How many millions of weary women have wished for the comforting convenience of the easy-to-get-at food storage that is a feature of every Frigidaire!

Indeed, if these sensibly placed shelves were the only outstanding advantage of this famous refrigerator, they would, in themselves, make Frigidaire well worth while to countless thousands of housewives!

* * *

Waist-high, easily accessible food shelves are one of the very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. It is such advantages, developed by Frigidaire, that have made household refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical. We invite you to come in to our showroom at your first opportunity and learn all about them.

Daily Proverb—"We should have many well wishers, but few friends."

The present surely is an exceptional year. Georgia's peach crop wasn't killed by the late frosts.

"A best seller," remarks Logan Pearsall Smith, "is the gilded tomb of a mediocre talent." Not so bad, Logan! Not so bad!

The Rev. Dr. Minot Simons says that "people must be attracted into the good life rather than scared into it." Huh! The popular method now is to legislate 'em into it.

It has been developed that through his so-called investment companies, John Factor, commonly referred to as "John, the Barber," did Londoners out of approximately $6,000,000. Guess the late Mr. Barnum's estimate more than holds good the world over.

"The secret of being young when you are old," the Bishop of London tells us "is to have some play with your work." At some time the bishop must have been a hard-working spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs. Anyway, he has the paragrapher's system down pat.

According to Isabel Patterson, "business is not conducted in hermetically sealed office rooms, insulated from all non-commercial influences." Sure not, Isabel. Every one now knows that business is conducted "in conference."

The Washington police, one night recently, rounded up 200 prisoners taken in gambling dens and liquor joints. It's amazing how speedily the police of the national capital learned the location of such places after the wave of crime started there!

The falling-off in divorces in England is so consistently marked that it is expected that the pre-war level will soon be reached. But then, our British cousins always were a bit behind the times.

As the "ten greatest minds," Dr. Will Durant has listed Confucius, Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas, Copernicus, Francis Bacon, Sir Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant and Charles Darwin. Looks like a deliberate affront to Senator Borah.

A citizen of Chicago has been granted a divorce because of the cruel treatment of his wife, who beat him up whenever he failed to do the housework properly. Mr. Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said it.

From Washington comes the statement that the presidential household will endure the extreme heat there in order to save $50,000 the installation of a cooling system in the White House would entail. Mr. Hoover must be in earnest in his economy campaign when he refuses to keep cool at the government's expense.

Ohio's Teapot Tempest.

The decision of Ohio State university trustees not to rehire Professor Herbert A. Miller is the stuff of which teapot tempests are made. The right of free speech, Professor Miller's capabilities and beliefs, domination of the university's educational policy by the trustees, and even plodding old John Taxpayer are being made to whirl round and round in the melee, with great harm to the orderliness that should distinguish an educational institution.

When it is all calmed down, the position of the board of trustees and the administration probably will be as strong as ever. After all, it is their responsibility to run the university, and in striking Professor Miller's name off the faculty list they are following their convictions, beyond any doubt. It is manifestly impossible for any one with less acquaintance with the situation than they to determine with more authority or accuracy what should or should not be done.

If the board of trustees is exercising unfair and unintelligent domination over the policies of the university, as it has been charged with doing, that is a condition than can be corrected only by persistent pressure from the public over a long period of time. It may be presumed the university has been doing substantially what Ohio citizens have wanted it to do, since there have been few criticisms of its policies. One incident, therefore, hardly could be important enough to wipe out the precedents of decades.

Ohio State university is a taxpayers' institution, to be sure, but that does not mean that taxpayers, comparatively ignorant where its problems are concerned, should presume the right to tell its officials what to do in a case where selection of the right course can better be made by those familiar with the ground.

Transition.

Another fifty years should see the question of married working women conclusively settled. At present it is in a period of transition. Perhaps it may be said that the United States is just getting ready to face it squarely. Current proposals in various sections of the country to replace married working women by men are provoking the formation of definite policies on the matter.

A census bureau estimate places the number of all women gainfully employed at 10,000,000, as against 37,000,000 men. The future is tentative, and its analysis must be made by proportions established by the census of 1920, which showed that of the 8,350,000 women gainfully employed in that year, not quite one in four was married. The same proportion would mean that approximately 2,350,000 married women are holding jobs in the United States. The estimate includes, of course, only married women living with their husbands, and is not concerned with women homemakers and farm wives who labor without remuneration.

Advocates of replacing married women stub their toes on several established facts. The largest is that approximately eighty-five per cent. of all married women working are doing so from stern necessity, not from free choice. The arguments of those who would replace married women with single women or men often presume erroneously that employed married women wilfully are drawing wages they do not need.

Another false conception of those who believe married women could be dismissed and sent to their homes with good social results is that they could be replaced. The error of this conception is disclosed easily, particularly in the school-teaching profession, many of whose most capable members are married women. The spinster school teacher, great as is her social service, is far from being able to claim a rightful monopoly in instructing Young America. Forty per cent. of American school boards employ married teachers.

The same general rule holds true in every field where married women find employment: they find places because they are fitted for them. The stress of survival is heavy on them, but they compete on equal terms with men and unmarried women. Replacing them, if it were possible to do so without decreasing efficiency, would constitute an unfair penalty on a group that is of prime importance in the preservation of an orderly social pattern.

Under the will of John M. Schumacher, a well-to-do merchant of New York City, his son, Harry, now a resident of Everett, Washington, will have to move to New York and live there five years to receive a third of the testator's estate. If the son decides to act under the terms of the will, he will earn the estate left him all right.

The Quaker's Idea.

The reasoning of the Quaker who concluded that himself and his friend were the only right individuals in a wrong world, and ended up by doubting his friend is called to mind by a comment on Abraham Lincoln's sanity in a paper written to be read before the American Psychiatric association next June 5. Dr. A. A. Brill, who prepared the paper, describes President Lincoln as a sufferer from attacks of a minor mental disorder, pointing out that the "occasional coarseness" of his wit was a manifestation of this psychosis.

"All of Lincoln's biographers have endeavored to explain this light vein in their serious-minded hero, and they are particularly puzzled and confused at his tendency to obscene joking," Dr. Brill has recorded. "All agree, as one puts it, that 'when hunting for wit he had no ability to discriminate between the vulgar and the refined substance from which he extracted it.' Any one studying him can readily find the marked emotional fluctuations that swayed his whole life. * * *"

The paper, which may not be read if certain objectors have their way, can make no difference in the world's appraisal of Abraham Lincoln. Every one is a wee bit crazy anyway—every one, that is, except "me and thee." And a fortunate thing, too, else living would be but a dull business.

It would be hard to think of a better way to improve the world than to turn loose in it a generation crazy like Lincoln.

One of the leading British railroads is installing a device which will apply the brakes on an approaching train when the signal is against it. The idea is not a bad one, if its application doesn't lead to the placing of too much dependence on the device.

Two aviators, late one day this week, made an unexpected call on a resident of Muskegon, Michigan, entering his home by way of its roof. Such calls as this are becoming far too frequent to encourage slumber on the part of persons inclined to nervousness.

Charlie Chaplin denies the story that he is to marry a Czech girl Miss Mary Reeves, he met at a French resort and he may be honest in saying that he doesn't contemplate marriage. There's the old saying, it may be remembered, that a burnt child dreads the fire.

This Is Ohio.

This is the state that ranked third in the number of wage earners when the government took a census of manufactures covering the year 1929.

This is the state whose manufactured products during the same year had a value of $5,999,153,993—fourth highest in the nation.

This is the state that stands with Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, New York and New Jersey in the most important industrial group in the nation, a group that receives more than half the total value of the nation's industrial output.

This is the state that lies in the strip stretching across the northeastern section of the United States, wherein people have the greatest wealth per capita of any region in the nation or the world.

This is the state that rears presidents, scholars, leaders and solid citizenry.

This is the state where life is pleasant—the state that knows better than to vaunt itself unduly, but knows enough to realize its advantages.

HOOVER: "I DON'T WANT TO DECREASE YOUR SIZE, BUT I'M GOING TO FEED YOU LESS."

Editorial Opinion.

NO EXTRA SESSION.

A burned child dreads the fire. President Hoover began his administration with an extra-session experience. He does not want another. Senator Borah, whose aid on the stump in the campaign of 1928 was very valuable to the President, committed him to an extra session if elected. Mr. Borah persuaded Mr. Hoover that agricultural woes would be relieved by this special and immediate form of congressional attention. The result was a complete tariff bill, and quite the reverse of benefit to prices of farm products and foreign trade.

During the last month of the regular session of the seventy-first congress, which adjourned March 4, the greatest dread of American industry was that an extra session would be forced by failure to pass the necessary appropriation bills. The sigh of relief which went up when these fears proved groundless echoes yet. With congress dispersed for nine months, business set about the patient process of rehabilitation. President Hoover's vigorous denial of pleas from Senator La Follette and other "Progressives" that he summon congress will remove any slight apprehension which may have existed. The correspondents report that Mr. Hoover's voice "rang with emphasis" when he said:

"I know nothing that would so disturb the healing processes now undoubtedly going on in the economic situation."

There spoke a thoroughly-informed witness of the effect of extra sessions when business, rightly or wrongly, is committed to the belief that no more laws are wanted at the moment. Politicians do not sympathize with this viewpoint. But their judgment is somewhat clouded by personal considerations. They miss the publicity which the congressional forum guarantees them. When parties are so closely divided in the two branches as in the seventy-second congress, the opportunity is greatest for a roving political band to make speeches and dominate action.

The regular session, beginning in December, is unlimited. But its span is not long enough for those who would like to begin pounding at the administration. Ideas surge in them for utterance; the drafts of bills clutter their desks. However painful this congestion proves for them, the country, which hopes to devote the summer and fall to working itself out of the depression, as the President puts it, is interested in the greater good for the greater number.—New York Times.

ISLES OF STRATEGY.

The Herald's maritime province correspondent discusses the effect on Canadian sentiment of the rumored movement on the part of the United States to purchase the little group of islands known as St. Pierre and Miquelon, that lonely French outpost in the North Atlantic. According to the correspondent, sentiment is divided. Some scout the idea with vehemence. To allow the United States to annex the islands would be to provide a possible enemy with a base from which to overrun not only Canada but her sister dominion, Newfoundland. Others make light of this danger and seem to favor the proposed transfer. There is a suspicion that their willingness to risk the security of the dominions is not unconnected with their sentiments on the subject of prohibition. As the islands at present belong to France it is possible that country might like to have something to say also.

These little places have of late acquired an importance out of proportion to their area or population. The total area is ninety-three square miles and the total population—mostly sturdy fisher folk—is 3,419. Nevertheless, these islands imported from Canada alone during the fiscal year goods to the value of $11,004,479. It is a fair estimate that liquor accounted for $10,000,000 of this. That is an impressive outlay for such a small population. Three thousand dollars' worth of hard stuff for every man, woman, and child in the islands is a liberal ration, even at prevailing prices. It speaks volumes for the invigorating effects of an outdoor life.—Boston Herald.

"Mere huts," said the native. "You should see some of our nice residences."

"And what are those enormous blossoms in the field yonder?"

"Just a patch of dandelions," answered the Californian modestly. "I must show you some real flowers."

The Hay Fever Season.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Many persons dread the summer months. They are the victims of hay fever.

Hay fever, or summer catarrh, originally received its name by reason of the extreme sensitivity of certain individuals to the pollen of hay and other grasses. These individuals, in addition to this particularly sensitivity, may be sensitive to other plant, animal and bacterial proteins.

There is a similarity between this disease and the symptoms met by persons who are unpleasantly sensitive to certain foods. Foods, such as eggs, shellfish, strawberries and tomatoes, may produce severe disturbances in susceptible individuals.

Hay fever and other associated diseases are found, at times, to run in families. It is believed by some authorities to be a sort of hereditary affliction.

When exposed to the offending plant, there is at once a sensation of heat and fullness in the eyes. There are redness of the eyeballs and a discharge of tears. Smarting and itching of the eye are soon converted into inflammation, with free discharge of mucus and pus.

Irritation of the nose produces sneezing. This becomes extremely violent. There is general discomfort, and the patient is miserable indeed.

Within the past decade great advances have been made in the treatment and cure of hay fever and similar diseases. I refer to the "desensitization tests," which some day I shall undertake to describe in detail. Following these tests, an inoculation of serum is made.

This treatment demands a long and tedious procedure, but in many instances is most effective. It requires a good deal of patience on your part, but I recommend it as well worth your time and trouble.

There are occasional cases of hay fever and asthma that do not respond to treatment. For these relief can only be accomplished by change in climate and altitude. Needless to say, it is important to keep away from the particular pollen that precipitates the attacks.

If you are a sufferer from asthma, hay fever or rose fever, the time to consult your physician is before the annual season arrives. By a few simple tests he may determine your sensitivity and immediately give you the necessary injections. If successful, your summer months will be passed in ease and comfort.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M. M. F. Q—Would bronchitis tend to keep one thin? I am seventeen years of age and weigh only seventy-four pounds.

2—Is porridge fattening?

A—Yes. Improve your health so that you will be less susceptible to the germs of colds and coughs. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Yes, and very nourishing.

MRS J. L. Q—My baby of 9½ months has suddenly developed a habit of squinting his eyes and twitching around his nose when any one looks at him. What shall I do and what is the cause of the trouble?

A—See your doctor. The baby may be nervous but it is also possible that the trouble is merely due to a habit. Your doctor will advise you.

* * *

R E T Q—What causes a constant pain under the lower part of my left rib in front of body?

A—This may be due to gas.

* * *

F B. Q—My son who is not in robust health uses both cream and sugar in his coffee and tea—is this injurious in any way?

A—No.

* * *

MISS E M D. Q—What will cure neuralgia? I have used electric pads and liniments, but can not seem to get relief.

2—What is the cause of bone abscess?

A—Some source of infection is responsible for this trouble. It would be wise to have a thorough physical examination including the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, intestines, gal bladder and kidneys. Find the cause and treatment can be prescribed.

2—Some sort of infection is responsible for a bone abscess.

The Word of God.

All things work together for good to them that love God. If God be for us, who can be against us? Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us.

A Scientific Revolution.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

It is highly appropriate that many celebrations should occur this year in celebration of Faraday, a scientist of amazing and comprehensive genius. He is one of history's outstanding examples of the natural in science. It was not second nature, as we say, but first nature—of the very nature of the man himself—to investigate Nature, with a capital letter, at first hand. There seemed to be some secret harmony and intercommunication between the mind of Faraday and the world of external nature, with its vast, secret and unnumbered forces.

Surely, if every scientist was gifted with foresight that scientist was Michael Faraday. He seemed to sense, with a sort of unerring instinct, those discoveries and inventions which gave promise of immense future developments in industry. This genius, and kindly natural philosopher refused the great financial rewards ungrudgingly, even eagerly, offered him, and worked for the most altruistic spirit, for the sake of pure truth.

Faraday came of humble parentage, but his father was a hard-working blacksmith, and deeply religious man. Some of that deep faith passed to his son. As a boy Michael lived on short rations, for it was the hard period of the Napoleonic wars, and he has recorded himself that his bread allowance was limited to one loaf a week. It is worthy of note that he acquired his first knowledge of electricity from the "Encyclopaedia Britannica," and he was introduced to chemistry by a book entitled "Conversations on Chemistry" by a Mrs. Marcet. Faraday's own confessions regarding this introductory period in his career are revelatory:

"Do not suppose that I was a very deep thinker, or was marked as a precocious person. I was a very lively imaginative person, and could believe in the Arabian Nights as easily as in the encyclopaedia. But facts were important to me, and saved me. I could trust a fact, and always cross-examined an assertion. So when I questioned Mrs. Marcet's book by such little experiments as I could find means to perform, and found it true to the facts as I could understand them, I felt that I had got hold of an anchor in chemical knowledge, and clung fast to it. Thence my deep veneration for Mrs Marcet—first as one who had conferred great personal good and pleasures on me, and then as one able to convey the truth and principle of those boundless fields of knowledge which concern natural things, to the young, untaught, and inquiring mind."

As Faraday advanced in knowledge, he developed the highest ideal for the scientist. He resolved to dedicate himself unstintedly to the pursuit of truth. It was his consciously expressed ambition to become what he called, very properly, a philosopher. Faraday was indeed, all his life, a lover of wisdom and a devotee at the altar of truth.

At the age of twenty-two, through the kindly and sympathetic interest of Sir Humphry Davy, Michael Faraday was given a poorly paid post at the Royal institution. But the opportunity was golden. It has been said that the fruits of his career were a revolution in civilization greater than has ever been made by any king, conqueror or empire.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Bounty and Draft System.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

When congress, preparing to fill the ranks of our army for service in the World war, was considering President Wilson's selective conscription method, was met by opposition, argument in favor of the proposed method might have been secured in Whitelaw Reid's description of the results of trying to avoid that method here in Ohio during the last full year of the Civil war.

The repeated calls and volunteering under them had largely drained the state of its more patriotic men, and in addition those still at home, who felt it their duty to offer themselves, were under the influence of unpatriotic organizations intended to resist or at least cripple recruiting in the ordinary way.

Mr. Reid referred in one of the opening chapters of his "Ohio in the War" to the "vicious system by which the work of recruiting was poisoned, the system which, when the genuine impulse of volunteering had measurably disappeared, sought by bribery, in the shape of bounties, to secure a sickly counterfeit of it, rather than to resort to an honest and impartial draft."

"The method pursued in raising these troops was uniform—save in its progressive tendency of from bad to worse. Very much against the wishes of Governor Brough, there was left no plan save to offer higher and higher bounties. Government, state, county, township bounties, hundreds piled on fresh hundreds of dollars, till it had come to such a pass that a community often paid in one form or another, near a thousand dollars for every soldier it presented to the mustering officers, and double as much for every one it succeeded in getting into the wasted ranks at the front.

"Saying nothing of the desertion, the bounty-jumping, the substitute brokerage thus stimulated, we have only to add that all this extravagance failed in its main purpose—it too rarely got the respective communities 'out of the draft.'

"Out of four calls made under Governor Brough's administration—the second was made before the previous one was filled, and for three of them as many as several drafts were ordered."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 28—The silent colo[nial] mansion at Thirty-Ninth street and Fifth avenue still stands in eerie solitude. Since the passing of its last and lone inhabitant, Miss Ella Wendell, at eighty-one, and the tense publicity about the eccentric family of [Wen]dells, there is always a curious group at the curb.

Even in its heydey the flutter of a curtain now and then gave the scabrous brick front its only show of life. After nightfall, when was the faint twitching from a coal oil lamp deep in the interior—that was all. Seldom ever did neighbors see anyone come and go.

Next door to the north is the vacant lot, its dull and rough high board and spiked fence said to represent a real estate value of $1,000,000. It is still being used by a caretaker as an exercising ground for the toothless, asthmatic Wendell poodle—now going blind.

A story with an unusual bad taste [twist] agency was printed saying Miss Wendell a few days before death, accompanied by equally-aged companions to a notorious night club and remained until 2 a. m. It was said in reckless prevarication that Miss Wendell gave the noisy hostess a $4,500 bracelet.

Miss Wendell ventured forth from her home but seldom. Let those who know say she was far from the type of rich recluse novelists portray as living in mystery houses—swathed in eternal suspicion. She was a lively lady with a sense of humor and a wholesome interest in current events.

She merely preferred to be on the sidelines watching and not a part of the parade. She read newspaper columns, dramatic reviews and was privy to what was going on in the world which never saw her. There were times, though, when her dimming eyes twinkled over a jest on one of her few intimates.

Miss Wendell's fortune, all in real estate, is worth more than $100,000,000. She obeyed wily old father's advice—to buy real estate but never to sell. Several blocks of Broadway frontage belonged entirely to her. Like her residence, it all needs improvement.

Finally it grabbed the snake by the back of the neck and worried it to death and scampered joyfully on.

King Arthur's Castle.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

One can not very well visit Cornwall, one of the loveliest sections of old England, without including a trip to the ruins of Tintagel, the castle King Arthur and his knights met and planned their deeds of valor.

For one who loves his allegories and legends there are few more interesting places on the world's surface than Tintagel. On the mainland the castle through a deep ravine cuts a wide chasm which divides the mainland from the castle. It would be an island if not for a narrow neck of connecting rock.

The castle was situated on top of a high mound. One need be no military strategist to realize that this situation would make it unable to attack.

Today the castle lies in ruin. Only enough remains visible to the eye to show the ruins of the deep, crumbled portions of the castle of St. Juliata, King Arthur's seat appear sufficient well.

Yet, for the man of imagination, and there are enough. For from here in days of old the brave knights of King Arthur are said in legend to have sallied forth into many deeds.

This much is definitely known of the castle. There was a castle there during the fifth century and a Prince of Wales once visited there as a guest. In the middle of the thirteenth century the castle was already in ruins.

Modern logicians declare that King Arthur never existed. However, that is a matter to question and probably will always be, but actually, it matters little whether King Arthur and his knights were actual people or merely the phantoms of some old poet's dream.

The legends and stories to which Tintagel and his castle have given birth are many and greater. And those who loved the stories of glory and Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" should go there and walk amid the ruins which are all that remain today of Arthur's grandeur and the glory that was Arthur's.

Tintagel is majestic in its isolation. Its ruins are thrilling, and it still retains the dignity of antiquity found all over Cornwall.

POLICE WIELD CLUBS AT LABOR MEETING

Tear Gas Also Used To Break Up Demonstration in Barberton, O.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 28—Police of Barberton, a suburb, wielded their clubs and hurled tear bombs last night to break up a demonstration sponsored by the international Labor Defense and five persons were sent to hospitals.

Approximately 800 persons gathered to hear Miss Jennie Cooper of Cleveland, district organizer for the Labor Defense, blame police for the disappearance of Louis Alexander, an unemployed negro, last February.

As Miss Cooper declared police had maltreated Alexander, Patrolman Dean Shannon stepped from behind stage scenery and denied the charge. Witnesses said a heated argument arose and Miss Cooper either fell or was knocked down.

The spectators surged toward the stage and police, convinced that Shannon was to be attacked, drew their maces and tossed tear bombs. The crowd emerged to the sidewalk, where Miss Cooper began another speech. Police charged a second time, and the demonstrators adjourned to Akron, where they met without any disturbance.

Fred Wilcox and Averan Averan, said to be Akron unemployed, were treated for effects of clubbings and tear gas. Three others, John Jandeska, S. Moon and Andrew Sabo, suffered minor injuries.

OHIO COUNCIL PLANS FOR TRIP JUNE 16

To Use Special Trains, Airplanes and Busses from Columbus to Marion.

Airplanes, trains and specially chartered busses will bring delegates to the fourth annual meeting of the Ohio Council of Republican Women to the dedication of Harding Memorial Tuesday, June 16, according to word received by Mrs. Cora McKeever, county chairwoman, from Bess B. Wetherholt, secretary of the Ohio council. Arrangements for transportation by airplanes special trains and busses have been made.

The council has set aside Tuesday entirely for the dedication, with the exception of a banquet planned to follow the ceremonies. Convention dates are June 15 and 16 at the Neil House.

A delegation of 25 Marion county Republican women are planning to attend the convention, Mrs. McKeever announced today. Most of these are expected to return to Columbus with the convention after the dedicatory services here for the annual banquet Tuesday night in the Neil House ballroom. An effort is being made, the state secretary says, to obtain President and Mrs. Hoover or former President and Mrs. Coolidge as honored guests for this occasion.

PORTRAIT OF PONTIFF TRAMPLED IN STREET

Italian Fascist Students Stage Demonstration Against Head of Church

By The Associated Press

ROME, May 28—Destruction of a portrait of Pope Pius XI by Fascist students during an attack on a Catholic publishing house cast new fuel today on the smouldering resentment of the Vatican toward the Italian government.

The young blackshirts stormed the headquarters of Civilta Cattolica last night, stoning the windows and committing other depredations. They tore an oil painting of the pontiff from the wall, carried it into the streets and trampled on it, crying meanwhile:

"Here is a traitor to his country."

Heaving copies of the book "Il Papa" (the pope) out of the windows, they took them to the Piazza Colonna, near the foreign office and consigned them to a bonfire, together with copies of Osservatore Romano, the paper which has been publishing accounts of purported Fascist indignities.

The march on the publishing house was without interference by the police. Later, authorities dispersed the students as they broke into small groups and began parading the streets, shouting deprecatory remarks against the church.

The incident was expected to lead to an exchange of notes between the Vatican and the government and perhaps to complicate an already strained situation.

Queen Grieves at Separation from Young Son

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 28—Queen Helen of Rumania, is represented as being reconciled to the bitter fact that she soon must leave her adopted country and her 9-year-old son, Crown Prince Michael.

She is quoted by an Englishwoman friend here as having said recently that she probably would go into voluntary exile as soon as the new Rumanian parliament is convened. She said she would live either in France or Italy.

"No choice is left me," she said, "as between humiliation and departure. I have chosen the latter—that is to say, I have resigned myself to what had to come sooner or later. I could do nothing.

"My life has been a sad one for years and now I am going out into the dark. There is no key to my fortune. I have lived in enforced retirement for a full year now and I shall live the life of a recluse henceforward.

"My dear boy Michael was unconsolable when I told him what my life is to be. I never saw despair written more deeply on the face of a child. I don't know where or how I shall be seeing him. That is my most profound sorrow."

King Carol, then crown prince, deserted Helen in 1922 for other loves, among whom was the red-headed Mme. Magda Lupescu. After his renunciation of his royal rights, she divorced him. He returned to claim the throne in June, 1930, but Helen refused to be reconciled.

DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. W. H. Sponhauer Passes Away at Galion.

GALION, May 28—The sudden death of Mrs. William H. Sponhauer occurred Wednesday at her home here. Mrs. Sponhauer has been in ill health for some time but her condition was not thought to be alarming.

She was born in Sabina Oct. 19, 1858, and was the daughter of the late J. W. and Sarah (McNeil) Eakins. She came to this city about 21 years ago.

Her marriage was solemnized in June, 1919, to William H. Sponhauer who survives together with two sisters, Mrs. Lloyd Johnson of Alliance, Neb., and Miss Edith Eakins of Galion and six brothers, Leroy of Washington, D. C., William and Edgar of Manhattan, Kan., Guy of Los Angeles, Calif., Curtis of Denver, Colo., and Earl of Martins Ferry.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Theft Ring Reported Uncovered at Urbana

URBANA, O., May 28—A hog-stealing ring which made away with valuable porkers in three counties has been uncovered, according to police, after months of pursuit of a mysterious blue automobile by authorities in this section.

As a result, Homer Powell of Urbana was held in jail here today, charged by investigators with purchasing the hogs which other men brought in from farms they visited in Madison, Champaign and Clark counties.

UNTOLD TORTURE FROM ECZEMA

Ended quickly by Resinol

"For three months I suffered torture from "weeping eczema," and the many different remedies I tried only gave me slight temporary relief. Finally I decided to try Resinol Ointment. After the first application the itching was relieved and after three days' treatment the whole affected surface was entirely healed. In view of what I had suffered it seems nothing short of a miracle. (Signed)—Ella Mashby, 61 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown, Mass.

The quickness with which Resinol acts in relieving eczema, chafing, rashes, piles, sores, etc., is amazing. Why don't you try it? At all druggists. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 97, Baltimore, Md.

Movie Advertisements Have Outstripped the Pictures, Will Says; Hunt for More Subtle Titles Continues

BY WILL ROGERS

A ... w is just what I read ... Moving Picture adds, ... what an education ... ght the underwear ... magazines were about ... presenting an eyefull. ... e adds give you the ... without the underwear. ... myself appeared in a ... in the Connecticut ... on the billboards it ... a touch of romantic ... say nothing of a smat... sex appeal. Mind you ... let the add have any... with what you see on ... You are liable to see ... stuff facing you on bill... then go inside and ... dressed as esquimos ... the picture. In other ... Hays big trouble is get... es that will live up to ... es on the adds. ... in all Latin American ... I am speaking of authority as I flew over them at an altitude of sometimes as low ten thousand feet) in those Countries, if you put a picture on the boards to advertise what you are having inside or if in your wording you say that Miss Millie De Hokum will entirely disrobe on a tight wire, why on the said night Millie better do a mighty good job of stripping or the cash customers will clothe Millie and her management with some seats and chairs, and any other handy articles laying around.

He'd Better Be Gored

Or if it shows a picture of a bull fight and a Matador being gored, by an unruly Ox, why the day of the fight, you better have the man gored, or be prepared to be gored yourself. In other words you got to deliver what you advertise. So the big problem of the Movies now is to deliver up to what the Lithograph makers and the add writers have shown on the outside In other words that branch of the Industry has "Outstripped" the production end. We just cant seem to get em as wild as they show em on the outside. We got to get wilder people. A lot of these have been out here for years, and they are getting kinder old and tame. There is an awful lot of us out here that just cant arouse the passions in our public like we ought to. And thats why we keep trying to get new blood into this ART.

Then in the Titles of Pictures, there is where its getting hard. They just cant think up enough suggestive Titles to go around. They bring every big Writer out here from New York and England and have them in an Office just thinking all the time on Titles that will lead you to expect you are going to see on the inside about four of the most prominent Commandments broken, right before your eyes. But there is just so many of those Titles, and every company is fighting to get em. You take old plays like the "Old Homestead." Now they are just waiting till they can think up some title for that, and then it will go into Production

A few of the best that have been turned in by the highest priced Writers up to now is "The Old Love Nest Home In Name Only" "The Birthplace of Folly" "Devilment Galore among the Honeysuckles. "What Took Place Under the Old Roof" "The Gal Pays the Mortgage with Body and Soul," "The House is Old but the Carryings on is New and Spicy." "The Gangsters Birthplace as Far as We Know"

So you can see that they are right on the edge of getting something that will combine all these, and give you an inkling of what the old roof has seen take place under it, and then they will start in making it

Not Always Triumphant

The word "Hell" while generally frowned upon as conversation in the grammar grades, has been literally pounced upon by the Movie Title manufacturers, and they have just about "Hell'ed" everything to death They have pictured the Doorway, the stage Entrance, and every part of Hell, till Hell has just got so it don't r... nothing anymore but another word in a title Putting the word Hell on the billboards and expecting to scare up any excitement among the prospective victims any more is just blowed up Course my old friend Will Hays still insists that Virtue triumphs, but they keep making you more and more doubtful right up to the end, in fact most of them hold it back till after the final fade out. And I have seen some of em here lately where it looked like it was still in doubt as to whether it triumphed or not

Thats called "Subtelry." All the Writers try to be what they call "Sophisticated" or "Subtelry." That means nobody knows what you are talking about and dont give a D——. Sophistication means talking all day about nothing. You are both bored but you have to do something till somebody mixes another cocktail, we are getting a lot of those kind of Talking plays now. Titles that if printed on the old silent screen, would have got the "Rawsberry" now are considered smart, for they apply to nothing and mean less.

I saw one the other night called "Kiss and Leave Each Other Flat" It was so subtle that it dident say whether you can leave em flat physically, or financially. They call em drawing room plays, women with nothing on their minds eat em up, kids hiss em, and old men sleep right through em They had em on the stage till they ruined it. So between "Subtelry" and Gangsters we have run the old Cowboy trying to save the sherriffs daughter, right back to the dairy farm No modern child would want to learn how to shoot a 45 Colts. He wants to know how to mow em down with the old Browning Machine Gun But we will live through it, and come out with something worse. We always do. So we better make the most of this while its here.
